If you want to take a Scotch vacation—use your imagination. But after six days of it even that most economical resource goes stale, and you want to get back to where the wheels turn, where conversation flows, and where the game of give and take is part of the daily exchange. I tried to consume one week's time away from the office, but some unfinished business in the way of waiting on guest copy enforced more or less loitering around an establishment to which I have become so accustomed it's now a fixed habit.

Some poetic soul said that distance lends enchantment, but my eyesight isn't very penetrating, so I restricted my travels to Orange county. I decided that Marco Polo had been over all the rest of the world, and there wasn't any use for me doing that all over again. Of course there have been a few changes since Marco took his excursions, but Orange county hasn't remained status quo, either. Why, I got as far south as Irvine station, and there are more new names on the mail boxes in that section than I expected. The place has changed from moderate to active. Being on an imaginary vacation, I compared the valley to the proverbial fertility of the Nile. Old Saddleback could have been the Alps, but it wasn't, and the Santiago dam, Crater Lake, only it lacked elevation. There were a number of discrepancies, but they all melt before a Scotch imagination.

Those imaginary vacations save you the trouble of buying railroad tickets, getting travelers checks, adding to the wardrobe, or asking the merchant to give you more time on your installment payments.

Earl Abbey gave me enough bait to go fishing, but it looked so tempting that I gave it to the cat and caught the fish with my hands. You can do that out of a gold fish pond.

Touring Orange county may be a delight to the tourist but to a quasi-pioneer it's a repetition. However, the never ending changes, the ceaseless turn-over, both in soil and personnel, presents a new picture. That is why the old pioneers love the older California, and witness with sorrow the relentless inroads of modern civilization which remove the haciendas, the decay of early architecture, and the colorful life of the days of the dons. I can appreciate with increasing evaluation Terry Stephenson's fascination for the earlier history of the county, which he has recorded so interestingly in his "Camino Viejo."

I had intended to extend my vacation another week, but when the administration announced the national debt was something over $37,000,000,000, I decided some one should go to work, and it might just as well be me.

In the interest of a friend I devoted a few hours collecting some information in the Huntington Beach oil field, and came upon my own folly. I had been importuned to get rich quick by an acquaintance who saw in the pioneer development of that now famous oil field and tideland disputes, a surging income which would engulf me with such an affluent income that the day would arrive when giving away dimes would become a monotony. Well, there is still a derrick over the hole in which I poured some of my money.

And then to Tustin to attend the Tommy Shelden barbecue benefit. Tustin is the community where the interest of one is the concern of all, a community which hasn't gotten away from the pioneer fellowship, and where others share your misfortune and rejoice over your success. Tommy, always a home town boy, seems to have been in the path of continued vicissitudes. Worked hard, respected, saved his money, ventured into business, took the depression rap, and fell before the onslaught of physical misfortune. His industry and personal conduct entrenched his standing in the community, so that it responded when ill luck crossed his path. As one (Continued on Page 2, Column 3)

TOT DIES IN MOTHER'S ARMS AFTER CRASH

Mother Kills Six Children to Save Family From Sin

DENISON, Ia. (AP)—Seven bodies—a mother and her six children—lay in a funeral home here today, victims of a farm home tragedy that Coroner John Gottburg said was murder and suicide.

The dead were: Mrs. Elsie Nollen, 30; Leona, 4; Viola, 2; Orvin, 11; Wilbert, 10; Pauline, 7; Earl, 6.

Leaving a suicide note which told of marital unhappiness, Mrs. Nollen took the lives of her children and herself by sending deadly automobile exhaust gas from the family car into a bedroom window of her home, west of here.

Her husband, Albert, 36, found the bodies early yesterday when he returned home.

"I have tried and tried to live a decent life," Mrs. Nollen said in the six-page, penciled note, "and raise my kids up right so they would be decent. . . .

"But they have a father that does not care for them or either me. He don't know any better. . . .

"Albert was awfully good to me when he wasn't drinking. I couldn't ask for a better husband. But oh, he sure was awful when he got drunk! . . .

"I am doing this because I can see that this family is not going to be raised up right and I think it is a shame to let them grow up and live such a life. . . ."

LEWIS, AFL PACT EXPECTED

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—American Federation of Labor leaders have decided informally to leave the door open for a reunion with John L. Lewis' C. I. O.

This was learned today in well-informed quarters while the federation's executive council started the second week of its seashore meeting.

Council members decided informally not to expel the 10 C. I. O. unions they suspended last Sept. 5, in answer to a demand from a few unions that they sever the last bond between Lewis and the A. F. of L.

These council members, it was learned, felt there was no use looking for a reunion.

STORM HITS FLORIDA COAST

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Winds reaching 50 miles an hour yesterday whipped the Florida east coast between here and St. Augustine today as a small tropical storm moved inland from the Atlantic where it had kicked up heavy squalls for a week.

There were no reports of personal injury in this area and only minor property damage. Trees were toppled and streets littered with small debris. A 40-foot temporary tower used by the State Fireman's Association for instructional purposes was blown down here.

High seas pounded the coast but the coast guard reported no distress calls. Small craft took to shelter before the disturbance reached the shoreline.

Walkathon Promoters Thumb Noses at Law

A score of young men and women, dragging their weary bodies around a tent-arena in Seal Beach, aren't participating in an endurance contest. Mercy, no; they're taking part in "a training period in which the participants are preparing to engage in further games of skill."

Because of this loophole clause in their contracts, "walkathon" participants and promoters figuratively thumbed their noses at Sheriff Logan Jackson and a state law today.

Hal Ross, manager of the walkathon, told Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey that S. B. Kaufman, former Orange county district attorney who now represents Ross, had approved the event and advised him it was within the law.

G-MEN RAID RESORT TOWN

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The federal bureau of investigation, with 137 persons already held in Mercer county jail as a result of vice raids in three states, moved swiftly today in search of the "higher-ups" in its drive to wipe out white slave traffic.

FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover, who directed the arrests Saturday night at establishments in Atlantic City, famed as a seashore resort and site of many national conventions, Philadelphia and Wilmington, Del., said 37 of the prisoners were "principals, procurers and madams" and 100 inmates were "maids."

Seventeen alleged houses of ill-fame were emptied at Atlantic City by 40 G-men led personally by Hoover. There, as in the simultaneous raids at Philadelphia and Wilmington, men "customers" who established their identity were released, others were herded into buses with "madams" and young girls and driven to Trenton, crowding the county jail's facilities.

Hold Army Man For Shooting Son

BERKELEY, (AP)—Capt. Donald William Page, 52, retired U. S. army officer, was held for investigation today as a result of the fatal shooting of his 16-year-old son.

Detective Sgt. H. F. Whaley said Donald E. Page, a high school student, in a dying statement said his father shot him after an argument.

Captain Page insisted the shooting was accidental and occurred as he was demonstrating the mechanism of a .45-caliber army pistol.

BODY HURLED FROM CAR AFTER IMPACT

Both Parents Injured
In Auto Collision

Sorrow stabbed deeply at the hearts of a young mother and father today after their baby daughter was killed before their eyes in a tragic auto accident Saturday night. The baby died in the arms of her pretty, grief-stricken mother.

Little Betty Jean O'Neal died of a skull fracture Saturday night, 10 minutes after the car her father was driving swerved out of control and overturned a mile east of Cypress. The death was Orange county's 60th violent traffic death this year.

O'Neal was driving west on Lincoln avenue at about 45 miles an hour, he told California highway patrol officials who investigated. The car in front of him suddenly slowed down, he said, and he applied his brakes.

The O'Neal car was thrown out of control and skidded more than 50 yards across the road before it struck a palm tree and overturned.

The impact apparently hurled the tiny infant through the car window and pinned the baby's frail body to the ground.

Mrs. O'Neal almost hysterically (Continued on Page 2, Column 4)

LAST CALL FOR BACK TAXES

Last call for payment of delinquent taxes without payment of penalties was issued today by County Auditor W. T. Lambert. Tomorrow is the last day for redemption of tax delinquent real estate without invocation of penalties, under provisions of a special moratorium enacted by the state legislature.

From Wednesday until April 20, owners are privileged to redeem property from tax sales without penalties, although interest will be charged at 7 per cent from July 1, 1936. After the April date the penalty will be computed on the basis of one per cent per month if redeemed within five years from July 1 of the year of sale to the state.

Three Given First Aid After Crash

Three persons were given first aid treatment at the Santa Ana Valley hospital yesterday for injuries sustained in automobile accidents.

R. F. Gabriel, 1033 West Eighty-fifth street, Los Angeles, was treated for an injured ankle, while J. J. Tanner, 1042 West Manchester boulevard, Los Angeles, was treated for a cut leg and an injured arm. For injuries to his forehead, J. M. Ferrin, San Diego, was treated.

KFI to Broadcast Louis-Farr Bout At 6 P. M. Today

The Joe Louis-Tom Farr world's heavyweight championship fight at Yankee stadium, New York, will be broadcast by KFI, Los Angeles, at 6 p. m. (Santa Ana time) over a national hook-up today.

Clem McCarthy will furnish the blow-by-blow report, with Edwin C. Hill summarizing between rounds.

For full particulars, read The Journal's sport pages.

D. C. PIXLEY, PIONEER OF ORANGE, DIES

Funeral Services to Be Held Tuesday

The city of Orange today prepared to pay tribute to one of its principal builders at funeral services to be held tomorrow afternoon.

DeWitt Clinton Pixley, 80 years of age, pioneer Orange county financier and merchant, died Saturday night at his home, 192 North Shaffer street, Orange, after playing an active part in many community and county-wide enterprises since 1881, when he first settled in the Orange district.

Death came at 6:45 p. m. Saturday, following a long illness from a heart ailment. Mr. Pixley had been leading a semi-retired life for the past few years.

Funeral services will be conducted from the Christian church in Orange, which Mr. Pixley helped to organize, by the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, former pastor of the church, now located in Long Beach, at 2 p. m. tomorrow, under the direction of the Gilgilly Funeral home. Burial will be in Fairhaven cemetery.

Born in Ingham, Clay county, Ill., March 19, 1857, he was the son of Osman Pixley, a merchant and banker of the town. Mr. D. C. Pixley was educated in the schools of the district, and graduated from Eureka college, Ill., with a B. A. degree, in 1877.

He conducted a mercantile business in southern Illinois for two (Continued on Page 2, Column 2)

PUT OFF COUNTY SALARY BOOST

Supervisors will absolutely, positively, definitely revise county employees' salaries—probably some other time.

Hanging fire for two months, the salary revision probably will be pushed along again when the board meets tomorrow. It was predicted today at the courthouse.

Supervisor Steele Finley, recovering from a serious illness, will not be well enough to attend tomorrow's meeting, and other board members would rather have him present when they take the much-discussed move. Action on raises for low-salaried county workers has been promised for weeks.

—FLASHES—

Wedding Chapel Loses Customers

The Rev. Earl C. Bloss and Miss Dorothy E. Collins, who for more than a year have successfully operated the Santa Ana Wedding Chapel together, were married Aug. 27, but, like the cook who wouldn't eat his own cooking, they went to San Diego for the nuptial ceremony.

The rites were performed at midnight by the Rev. Dr. Clinton Wunder. Miss Collins was attended by Miss Virginia Tallmadge of Los Angeles. The Rev. and Mrs. Bloss will reside at 2112 North Main street, where the Wedding Chapel is located. They are now honeymooning in Arizona, the Grand Canyon and Old Mexico.

Marriage Was 'Too, Too Perfect'

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—Blaming a clash of "perfect" temperaments, Eleanor Bailey, screen chorine, announced today she probably would seek a divorce soon from Eddie Foy, assistant dance director.

"Our marriage was too, too perfect," blonde Miss Bailey said. "We were so polite, and considerate and sympathetic, that we got on each other's nerves."

China Erased From Passports

Two Orange county residents who named China as a stopping-place on passport applications during the past two weeks have struck snags, County Clerk J. M. Backs reported today, and have been granted passports only after taking China off the itinerary. In the early stages of the war there, passports were issued only on an affidavit that the traveler wasn't going to China to fight.

Chopping Block for Chinese

SHANGHAI. (AP)—Swift beheading was publicly prescribed—and demonstrated—by Chinese military authorities today for China's enemies among her own people. These include such persons as traitors, spies, looters, incendiaries, rumor mongers and those who harbor traitors.

The public executioner, armed with a yard-long sword, lopped off the heads of two women and seven men yesterday. The heads were promptly placed on picket fences as a terrible warning to others.

Seven Wounded in Bomb Raid; Sailors Seek War Bonuses

Seamen May Fight to Halt War Supply
Ship at Manila

WASHINGTON. (AP)—A CIO threat of a strike to prevent an American ship from carrying war supplies to China added a new problem today to the difficulties raised for federal officials by the Sino-Japanese hostilities.

Ralph Emerson, legislative representative for the National Maritime Union, predicted a sit-down strike by union seamen would prevent the government-owned freighter, Wichita, from reaching China with a cargo of bombing planes and barbed wire.

It will never get past Manila, Emerson said. The National Maritime Union is an affiliate of John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization.

Emerson also expressed the opinion the maritime commission, finding itself in a delicate position by virtue of its ownership of the freighter, would take steps to end the Wichita's voyage.

The Wichita sailed from Baltimore Friday just before Secretary Hull received Japan's official notification of a blockade of Chinese ports.

Japan's advice said her blockade would be aimed only at Chinese shipping and would not affect "peaceful commerce" of other nations.

Emerson's threat of a sit-down strike to prevent the Wichita from reaching China was regarded here as an unofficial move to put into operation one of the chief features of American neutrality law—a ban on shipment of war implements and supplies to warring nations.

SEAMEN RELUCTANT
Emerson said the seamen were extremely reluctant to engage in the hazardous service of carrying war cargoes even if suggestions of a $250 bonus for each crew member were carried out.

The state department tells us there is no war in China," Emerson said, "but maritime commission officials say there is a whole lot of war. Morally we know, and everybody else knows, that war exists."

If the Wichita crosses to China with her war cargo, observers of the Sino-Japanese situation speculate on whether Japan would regard the movement of the vessel as "peaceful commerce." The Wichita scheduled to stop at San Pedro, Calif., is not due to reach China for several weeks.

DEMAND BONUSES FOR SEAMEN IN WAR AREA

NEW YORK. (AP)—The air bombing of the S. S. President Hoover in China reverberated in the New York waterfront today in the form of a demand by the National Maritime union, CIO affiliate, for "war bonuses" for all American seamen visiting "dangerous waters."

The union asks a bonus of $250 for seamen traveling in war zones.

3 Die in Holy Land Uprising

JERUSALEM. (AP)—Three Jews and an Arab were shot to death today in a series of assaults which authorities feared was the beginning of new disorders in the Holy Lands.

A Jewish passenger on a bus between Tel Aviv and Palestine was killed by shots from a passing automobile.

An Arab walking to work in residential Jerusalem was killed in what police believed was a development of the bus slaying.

A Jew was found dead in the bottom of a well and another in a field, both shot.

Refugee Ship Flees
For Japan After Plane Attack

By JAMES A. MILLS
SHANGHAI. (AP)—Bombs from four Chinese warplanes ripped decks and sides of the big United States Dollar liner President Hoover today in the China sea, wounded seven of her seamen, and heightened in menacing, feverish degree the international scope of Sino-Japanese conflict.

The incident paralyzed efforts of the United States navy and the Dollar Line to evacuate hundreds of American women and children remaining in Shanghai.

Chinese authorities at Nanking admitted that "one" Chinese plane, trying to hit a Japanese troop ship, bombed the Hoover by accident.

A most simultaneously, Japanese naval authorities here announced two of their seaplanes had shot down an American-made Chinese plane which had bombed the Hoover.

The Japanese gave neither the time nor the place of this aerial battle.

FRAGMENTS HIT SHIP
Fragments pierced the ship's hull in 25 places. One projectile struck the boat deck; several landed in the water at the President Hoover's sides.

Three passengers suffered shell-shock. An emergency operation was performed to save the life of the most seriously injured seaman.

The bombing prompted Dollar Line officials to cancel plans for further evacuation of Americans from war-torn Shanghai. The President Hoover and a following liner were ordered back to Kobe, Japan, to avoid further risk. The Hoover was attacked 20 miles from the coast, about 50 miles from Hongkong, the place where other Dollar liners have taken on Americans evacuating Shanghai.

At the time, the President Hoover was hurrying to Shanghai to pick up 350 Americans who had booked passage for Manila.

TENSION FOLLOWS
It was the second time since Shanghai hostilities started that Americans were killed or wounded on shipboard. On Aug. 20, a sailor was killed and 17 were wounded when a shell struck the U. S. S. Augusta, flagship of the Asiatic fleet. Other Dollar liners, too, have been under Sino-Japanese crossfire.

International tension in the battle-scarred city reached a new height.

The incident came just as Sir Hugh Montgomery Knibbs, British ambassador to Hugesen, Britain's ambassador to (Continued on Page 2, Col. 1)

I'll Tell You By BOB BURNS

I think there's a good lesson in every success story. A lot of times when we can't find a way out of our own difficulties, we take a lesson from the other fellow. I know a bunch of reporters that went out to get the success story of a man because he had been wiped out in the market and then in a few months, he came back stronger than ever. They told him they admired his courage for having come back after losing everything and they thought his story would be an inspiration to their readers.

The man put a cigar in his mouth and he got up and paced the floor with his thumbs in his suspenders and says, "Well, boys, it wasn't easy." He said, "When I lost everything, I didn't mope around and get discouraged and give up the ghost. No sir! I gritted my teeth and borrowed $5000 from my brother!"

U. S. REFUGEES BOMBED BY CHINESE

China, was reported recovering somewhat from bullet wounds suffered when a Japanese plane machine-gunned his car Thursday.

In Tokyo, the Japanese government pondered its reply to Britain's demand for a full apology for the attack.

AWAIT APOLOGY
Despite its emphatic nature, studies of the note indicated Britain does not plan to pursue any belligerent course should the Japanese hedge on the apology and other redress demanded.

Besides a "formal apology to be conveyed by the Japanese government to his majesty's government," the note demanded "suitable punishment for those responsible for the attack" and "assurance by the Japanese authorities that necessary measures will be taken to prevent recurrence of events of such a character."

It was considered here that these three points could be fulfilled by Japan without national humiliation.

OPEN OFFENSIVE
On the war front itself, Japan girded for a general offensive against Chinese troops about Shanghai by massing land and naval forces for a drive on defense lines.

Bombs and shells again fell near the international area.

The British cruiser Cumberland was the first to respond to the President Hoover's frantic calls for aid. She reached the vessel before the arrival of two United States destroyers.

Apparently the bombs were aimed at two Japanese destroyers which were maneuvering in the vicinity of the Hoover.

United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss immediately reported the bombing to Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson at Nanjing.

Johnson rushed to the Chinese government to call official attention to the incident.

LINERS FLEE
Navy officials immediately ordered the Hoover and the Dollar Liner McKinley, which was following her, to turn about and rush toward Kobe, to avoid further such incidents.

The Hoover, at the time of the bombing, was hurrying to Shanghai from Manila to pick up 350 Americans desiring evacuation. She would have cleared for Manila early tomorrow.

After the bombing, the Dollar Line announced all plans for further evacuation of Americans from Shanghai were frustrated.

When she was hit, The Hoover had aboard 257 passengers and 320 crewmen, under Capt. George W. Yardley.

Japan meanwhile massed army and navy forces for a general onslaught against the estimated half million of Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's warriors who are about Shanghai and other cities of Kiangsu province.

MANY CASUALTIES
Warfare came close to the international area of Shanghai itself.

A huge shell, believed to have been fired by a Chinese gun, exploded in Japanese lines in Northern Shanghai, close to the international settlement.

Many were killed; a wide area was in flames.

Fires broke out again in other districts when Japanese naval guns bombarded Chinese troop concentrations at Kiangwan, north of Shanghai proper, and Japanese planes dropped bombs on Miaohong, farther north.

Japanese aviators refrained from additional bombardment of the old Chinese city, but army spokesmen said the crowded Nantao quarter would be bombed again if the Shanghai-Hangchow railway were used for troop movements.

Hundreds were killed in Nantao Saturday by Japanese bombs.

CHILDREN RIOT
Throughout the day parts of Shanghai, the Chapel, Hongkew and Pootung districts were subjected to sporadic bombing and shelling.

At Louza police station in the international settlement, 180 Chinese incorrigible children recently transferred from the Ward road prison staged a riot, demanding freedom.

Police finally put down the disturbance and herded the children into Chekiang theater where they rioted again.

French authorities increased their armed forces in the French concession, where most American residents of Shanghai live. With additional troop arrivals the concession will have a total of 7000 regulars before the end of September.

The United States has 1250 marines in Shanghai and Great Britain has about 3000.

Confer On Extra Session

Representative Sam Rayburn, majority leader of the house, left, and Senator Alben Barkley, senate majority leader, arrive at the White House for a luncheon engagement with President Roosevelt, during which the possible special session of congress in November was discussed. No decision was reached, although the two leaders opposed the proposal.

D. C. PIXLEY OF ORANGE DIES

years, and then came to California in 1881, locating on a ranch near Orange.

In the spring of 1882 he bought the general merchandise store of R. L. Crowder, a prominent pioneer merchant of Orange. Three years later he purchased a lot on North Glassell street and built a brick block in which he engaged in general merchandising. Later Mr. Pixley sold the grocery and dry-goods departments and continued in the hardware, implement and furniture stores. In 1909 he sold the furniture store to his son, Walter C. Pixley, and the hardware store to the Kogler Hardware company.

HELPED BUILD BANK
He became vitally interested in the various enterprises of importance in building up the town, and was an original stockholder and director in the First National bank of Orange, for seven years serving as president. At the time of his death he was a director and chairman of the finance committee of that institution. He was also a former president of the Orange Savings bank, and was a director when he died.

In addition, Mr. Pixley was an early stockholder in the Orange Building and Loan association, holding the position of president for 22 years prior to 1919, when he resigned. He was a prominent factor in building the Olive Milling company, and was its president for 10 years, also resigning this post when the company was sold in 1919.

For many years he was a vice president and director of the Abstract Title company of Santa Ana, and was interested in the company from the time of its origin as a stock company.

COUNTY SUPERVISOR
In 1905 he was elected to serve as supervisor of Orange county from the fourth district, resigning at the end of his term. Later he was made chairman of the highway commission of the county.

He was married to Miss Florence M. Bering, who survives him, in September, 1878, in Inglewood, Ill. Five children were born to the couple, Walter C. Pixley, Mrs. Frances P. Fletcher, and Oerman Pixley, Orange; Mrs. Floy P. Marks, Los Angeles; Mrs. Alma P. Dean, San Marino. One grandson, four granddaughters and two great-grandchildren, as well as two brothers, Harvey F. Pixley, Pasadena, and Arthur Pixley, Pasadena, also survive.

He was a charter member of the Christian church of Orange, and served many years as deacon, always being active in the Sunday school work of the church.

LODGE MEMBER
Mr. Pixley was made a Mason in Orange Grove lodge No. 293, F. and A. M., and was exalted in the Santa Ana chapter, Royal Arch Masons. He later became a charter member of Orange Grove chapter No. 99, R. A. M. In addition, he was a member of the Santa Ana Commandery of Knight Templars, and was affiliated with Al Malakiah of the Shrine in Los Angeles.

Mr. Pixley disposed of many of his holdings in Los Angeles and San Diego county several years ago and retired from many of his interests. On Dec. 21, 1935, he was stricken with a serious heart ailment, but carried on such business as possible in spite of his illness. His associates have commented on the admirable methods Mr. Pixley always used in conducting his business. In 1916 he took a vacation trip to Australia and the South Sea islands. Four years later he repeated the journey.

BABY DIES IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

picked her child out of the wreck and held her convulsively until help came. The infant's skull was badly mutilated and she was pronounced dead at 7:40 p. m., just 10 minutes after the fatal accident occurred.

The child's young mother was injured slightly, and her father, 25 years of age, was barely scratched. Mrs. O'Neal was given first aid in the county hospital.

An inquest was to be conducted at 2 p. m. today from the Backs, Terry & Campbell funeral parlor in Anaheim, where funeral arrangements are being made. Assistant Coroner Bert Casteix investigated the tragedy.

SIX KILLED IN SOUTHLAND WRECK
LOS ANGELES. (AP)—E. J. Bickel, 38, radio policeman, was killed and his companion officer, Raymond E. McPherson, was seriously injured today as their automobile crashed into a Southern Pacific freight train in a heavy fog in Van Nuys. This brought the traffic deaths since Saturday to six.

The officers' automobile was thrown 10 feet by impact. Bickel's skull was fractured. McPherson was driving. Bickel lived in Sunland.

Two other victims, Mrs. Marie Clifford, 67, Los Angeles, and Matthew J. Rogers, 62, Burbank, were pedestrians.

An infant son of Mrs. Bonnie Burke, Redlands, was killed in a collision near Desert Center.

Miss Jewell Lorena Horn, 23, Los Angeles, was crushed to death when the car in which she was riding overturned in a ditch.

Miss Lucille Horrell, 30, Los Angeles, was killed and four others were injured in a collision in Alhambra.

An automobile plunged 150 feet into a canal from a cliff near Bakersfield, seriously injuring two small sons of Harry Francisco, Santa Barbara, who was jailed by police.

Jimmy Sarandos, heavyweight wrestler, hurt in a highway crash Friday night, remained in a critical condition at San Joaquin hospital without regaining consciousness.

His companions in the car were George Wilson, former University of Washington football star; Jimmie Kennedy, 450-pound wrestler and Millard Rauch, Ocean Park fight manager.

The driver of the other automobile, Ira Baker, of Los Angeles, was fatally injured.

Pastor to Talk At G. W. L. Event
The Rev. C. F. Alexander, Corona, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of Santa Ana post of the General Welfare Legion tomorrow at 7:30 p. m. in the Sycamore entrance of the Y. M. C. A. The speaker, who is president of the Corona post, will be introduced by Frank Kendall, president of the local post.

A mass meeting was to have been held in the American Legion hall here tomorrow night, but it has been postponed, according to Herbert F. Kenny, congressional district secretary.

Dr. George A. Warner, former pastor of the First Methodist church here, was the speaker at a meeting in San Bernardino headquarters Saturday night, attended by several from Orange county, Kenny said.

Valjean McCoy Takes Texas Job
Valjean McCoy, who for the past two years has been in the social science department of the Santa Ana High school, has accepted a position at a university in Houston, Texas.

His position here has not yet been filled. It was announced at the office of Superintendent Frank Henderson.

Legion Drum Corps At Homecoming
Santa Ana's American Legion bugle and drum corps will take part tonight in a gala homecoming at Riverside, honoring the new state commander, Joe Long of Riverside.

The event will open with a parade at 8 p. m. Legion posts will be represented from San Diego, Orange, Riverside, San Bernardino and Imperial counties.

Bartender Jailed By Secret Service
David C. Whitehouse, 24, 667 Coast boulevard, South Laguna Beach, was being held in county jail today on a federal forgery charge.

Whitehouse, a Laguna bartender, was booked Saturday after being arrested by two United States secret service officials.

Legless Merman in Hospital After Record-Breaking Trip

NEW YORK. (AP)—After claiming all marathon swimming records with his 145-mile Albany to New York swim in 147 hours and 37 minutes, Charles Zimny, 43-year-old legless merman, was reported at Harlem hospital today to be in "very serious condition."

Congestion in his lungs caused fear that he had developed pneumonia.

Zimny was apparently in good condition when he finished his swim last night.

Wary but grinning as handlers wiped from him a heavy protective covering of grease and a few barnacles collected during his long journey, he announced:

"My next hop will be from Key West to Havana."

He said the non-stop ocean swim—about 85 miles—would be attempted in November or December.

Zimny, some 37 pounds lighter than when he entered the Hudson river at Albany last Monday at 5:03 p. m. (E.S.T.), swam past his goal—the 127th street pier—at 8:40 last night.

Powered by a handful of raw hamburger and a jigger of cognac, he maneuvered a mile and a quarter downstream before docking at 98th street amid the shrieking whistles of nearby pleasure craft.

The doughty swimmer, who performed the feat for the future gold and present glory—but mostly for future gold—then was towed upstream to the 127th street pier, where he re-entered the water and obligingly swam to shore again so the news reel boys wouldn't be disappointed. That brought a cheer from a crowd of 500 persons on the pier.

"Thank God, we're here!" exclaimed Zimny, and asked for a cigar—the 300th consumed in his 6-day marathon. His chubby face was covered with a salt-soaked beard.

BOYCOTT ALL FULLERTON PLANT GOODS

A drive to establish a coast-wide boycott on all products of the Mississippi Glass company of Fullerton was under way today following collapse of a new attempt to settle a strike which has kept the factory closed down for more than a month.

Representatives of the striking glass workers said today a lengthy conference was held between the strikers and factory officials Friday afternoon, and that at the end of the conference oral agreements which would have ended the strike were made.

The strikers charged, however, that when the agreements made orally at the Friday afternoon meeting, were presented to the workers in writing Saturday by the factory officials, they were not the same as those agreed upon orally. Therefore the written agreement was rejected, it was stated.

Official representatives of the strikers said that a coast-wide boycott of all Mississippi Glass company products was under way today. The company operates factories in several cities in the nation.

Sixty employees of the factory, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, walked out four weeks ago last Wednesday. The workers are demanding contracts for a year, a 15 per cent increase in pay, a closed shop and time and a half for overtime. They have been earning from 53 to 75 cents an hour, workers said.

SHORTAGE OF 5,600,000 HOMES TOLD

Relief Sighted Under Wagner Act Program

WASHINGTON, (AP) — PWA housing experts estimated today the depression has left the American people in need of at least 5,600,000 new homes.

It would take that many, they said, to replace the worst slums and give families about the same kind of living quarters they had in 1930.

Homes for 135,000 low-income families may be provided in the next three years through local projects supported by federal loans under the $528,000,000 Wagner housing act.

PWA files, however, contain nothing to show that private enterprise is getting into the field of providing homes for lower-income families.

FACTORS LISTED

Public works officials listed these factors as affecting the need for houses as the nation rises out of the depression:

The population has increased. Home building during the depression did not keep pace with the population. Over a six-year period in Enid, Okla., for instance, five families were added to the population for every new dwelling erected. A 1935 survey in Birmingham, Ala., showed that while 2000 new families had been added to the city only 500 new homes had been built.

NOW UNSCRAMBLED

Families which doubled up in a single home to weather economic stress are now unscrambling. Typical of the depression situation, the expert said, is Lackawanna, N. Y. (population about 25,000), where 200 families were doubled up in 1935 and the number had increased to 400 families by 1936.

Families which migrated from the cities to the farms during the depression are wandering back to the industrial centers in search of new jobs.

GAIN IN MARRIAGES

Marriage, held back by the depression, is on the increase, and nearly every newly married couple demands a new home. Statisticians, comparing marriage before and during the depression, found there were about 1,250,000 marriages which "did not happen" in the lean years.

Families are yearly becoming smaller, on the average, which means that more dwellings are needed to house the same number of people.

Some of the new buildings added no more quarters because they simply replaced worn-out structures.

Gospel of John Is Science Topic

Jesus' words, from the gospel of John: "The Father judgeth not man, but hath committed all judgment unto the Son: that all men should honour the Son, even as they honor the Father," were the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Christ Jesus" on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Among the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon were these verses from the Acts: "Then Paul stood up, and beckoning with his hand said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience."

And we declare unto you glad tidings, now that the promise which was made unto the fathers, God has fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second psalm: Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee." This verse from I John was included also: "And we have seen and do testify that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world."

A passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "All must sooner or later plant themselves in Christ, the true idea of God."

COMIC OPERA TO SHOW HERE

"The Geisha Girl" comes to the boards of the high school auditorium next Thursday evening when the Orange County federal music project unit will combine with the San Diego project to present this admiring two-act Japanese musical play from the pen of Sidney Jones. The players chalked up a record in San Diego in a four-performance run of the show during National Music week.

Twenty-three members of the San Diego group comprise the cast, starring Charles Cannon in the leading comedy role. He comes immediately to the front with the rise of the curtain in the role of Wun Hi, harassed Chinese proprietor of "The House of Ten Thousand Joys"—a Japanese tea house, and from then dominates the comedy sequence.

Carmen Conger portrays the feminine lead as the winsome O Mimosa Sam, chief Geisha. Miss Conger's lyric soprano is heard in many of the outstanding numbers from the lilt musical score, including "Kissing Duet," which she sings with Jack Dawson, tenor, cast as the dashing Reginald Fairfax. Others in major roles are Genevieve Roberts as Molly Seamore, Robert Baker as the Marquis Imari, Dorothy Starbird (nee Sammis) former Santa Ana girl, as Lady Constance Gwynn, and Barbara Beck as Julietta. Walter Schulte, local member of the Orange County chorus, will sing the bass role of Takemine.

Act two opens on a chrysanthemum fete in the palace gardens, which strikes a high note in movement and color. The rollicking "Japanese March" from the score (sung in Japanese) by the Orange county federal chorus, is heard in this act as well as the

BULLETIN TELLS OF STYLE SHOW

A special bulletin was sent out by the chamber of commerce to merchants of the city today, urging them to unite 100 per cent in making the fall fashion event an outstanding success.

The fall event, to be staged Sept. 22 through Sept. 25, is to be called "Parade of the Windows." The retail division of the chamber and display men of the stores have decided upon a plan whereby fall or harvest themes will be the motif for the event.

Window displays will be the principal activity. A number of stores already have adopted themes and are proceeding with their plans. Types of themes which have been adopted are "Autumn Fires," "Harvest of the Years," "Summer's End," "Autumn Leaves," "Cat-tails," "Wild Wind" and "Early Candlelight."

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce has appropriated $25, which will be awarded in prizes for the display men and women.

The committee in charge of the event includes Walter Swanberger, George Spielman, F. A. Jones and Ivie Stein.

Chon Kina number, beloved by all Japanese as a greeting song.

The accompaniment is provided by this county's symphony orchestra and the entire performance is under the direction of Julius Lieb, San Diego conductor.

Tickets at popular prices can be secured at the high school box office, open from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. next Wednesday, and all day Thursday. Reservations are now being taken through the federal music project office at 431 West Third street.

SCHOOL TO GET TABERNACLE?

Demands of students and parents for a suitable auditorium for the Julia Lathrop Junior High school may be satisfied tonight.

The board of education will decide tonight whether it will purchase the tabernacle formerly used by the Seventh Day Adventist church in the south part of town, and transform the tabernacle into an auditorium.

One condition, however, may prevent the board of education from purchasing the tabernacle. That is whether the state will approve of the type of construction for use as a school auditorium.

Since the big earthquake, stringent laws have been put into effect, governing the type of construction for school buildings.

Business Manager George Newcomb has written to state authorities, seeking to determine whether the school system can purchase and use the tabernacle, should this be desired.

While awaiting a reply, it is possible that the school board tonight will call for offers on the structure. Initial cost of the structure would be about $5000, but it is planned to put stucco on the outside and make other improvements which would run the cost up to $10,000 or more. The building seats 900, and is solidly constructed.

Townsend News, Views

By
WALTER R. ROBB

A crowd of more than 500 of Orange county's citizens gathered in Santa Ana Park last Friday night to attend the Townsend mass meeting sponsored by Santa Ana Club No. 1. Fred Seifert, president of the club, was master of ceremonies, and Grant Henderson, former president, led the community singing. Miss Lizetta Phillips was accompanist. The Hurd-Lentz orchestra gave a much appreciated 30-minute concert.

Seated on the speaker's platform were the following members of the city council: Mayor Fred Rowland; Plummer Bruns, also president of the Santa Ana Business Men's association; Ernest Layton, and Joseph Smith. William Penn, the other member of the city council, sent his regrets at not being able to be present.

Ex-Mayor E. G. Warner, who is an active member of Club 11 and who had arranged for the councilmen to be present, was also among the group, as was Bob Adams, Townsend speaker from Los Angeles. Councilman Bruns was introduced by President Seifert. Bruns introduced Mayor Rowland, who gave a brief address of welcome and presented the speaker.

A number of the business men of the city were scattered through the audience and the speaker began by stating it was always a pleasure for him to sell a good idea to a business man. Later he made it plain that the Townsend plan was the good idea in mind. The advantage of cash business over that of credit to business men was then enlarged upon. During the process he outlined the dependence which the business world in general under present economic set-ups is obligated to place in institutions granting credit for business purposes. This he said added additional cost to merchandising which had to be added to the cost charged the eventual consumer.

With the abundance of cash in circulation as would result from the adoption of the Townsend plan the major portion of business done would be a cash nature instead of credit with a consequent lowered cost to the consumer instead of the inflated prices, as has sometimes been argued. He amply illustrated the advantages of this to both the business men and the public.

He stressed the Garden of Eden now existing in Southern California as having been made possible through an abundant water supply properly distributed, and pointed out how quickly the withdrawal of the water supply would result in producing a similar condition. The unemployment and kindred evils now present in America he said were due to our money supply being dammed up.

The Townsend plan method of distributing money, he said, would result in producing a similar economic Garden of Eden as was being experienced in Southern California from the controlled distribution of water.

He said Townsend plan in operation, he said, would be far more beneficial to the young than the old. The recovery of a general welfare, he pointed out, was the primary objective of the plan. He quoted many statistics to show that the depression had driven many of American youth into crime. He pointed out that the cost of prevention of crime, together with that of institutional care accorded criminals and juvenile delinquents in America, was $16,000,000,000 in 1934, and that present costs are similar. This, he stated, could be better spent through making opportunities for American youth through the annual circulation of a similar sum through the Townsend plan. The latter would be constructive instead of destructive of a proper morale among our youthful citizens, the speaker pointed out.

He gave credit, in conclusion, to Dr. Francis E. Townsend for having produced a change in the thinking of the entire nation along economic lines, and prophesied that the time would come when the Townsend plan would receive the general endorsement of the people, resulting in its enactment into law.

E. E. Proud, president of the La Habra Club No. 1, will be in attendance at its meeting being held in the Masonic hall at 7:30 this evening. He will be at a meeting of the Corona club, and will be accompanied by John W. Sauer of the Tustin club. Both men are members of the 19th district Townsend board.

The Oceanview club is holding a foot-luck dinner at 6:30 tomorrow evening in the basement of the Oceanview Grammar school building. Afterwards, at 7:30, President W. T. Vanduff will conduct a regular Townsend meeting, with Walter R. Robb of Santa Ana as the speaker. Bring your table service and a covered dish and enjoy the meeting.

Remember, the following clubs meet at 7:30 tonight: Orange

EXPLAIN MWD POSITION ON STRIKE

Weymouth Says Union Demands Unreasonable

Close on the heels of a statement from union officials concerned in the Metropolitan Water district strike, today came a statement from F. E. Weymouth, general manager and chief engineer of the district, explaining the position the district is taking in regard to the labor trouble.

Weymouth charged that since the C.I.O. union called a strike on the San Jacinto tunnel of the Colorado river aqueduct Aug. 14, representatives of the union, in statements in newspapers, in radio speeches and in letters mailed to public officials and private citizens, have sought to misrepresent the issues involved.

Since Santa Ana, Anaheim and Fullerton are members of the M.W.D., citizens of the three cities are vitally interested in any trouble which may cause delay in bringing the river water here.

M.W.D. ACCUSED

Weymouth's statement said that despite the obvious fact that it was the union that called the strike, its spokesmen are charging that the officers of the M.W.D. are causing great losses of taxpayers money as a result of delays in tunnel work occasioned by the strike. His statement follows:

"The citizens and taxpayers of the Metropolitan Water district of Southern California are entitled to know the facts. "Ever since the union called a strike the district continuously has carried forward maintenance and construction operations at the tunnel, and is replacing the strikers with experienced and qualified workmen who are residents of the district. Delays in normal construction progress have resulted from the fact that the strikers have left the job. The full responsibility for such delays, and the resultant costs to the taxpayers, must rest upon the strikers. The officers of the district have not closed down the job, but, on the contrary, are pushing it forward as rapidly and as diligently as possible under the circumstances."

LETTERS TO CITIES

"The strikers have written letters to public officials and private citizens in which they make the following statement: 'The strikers are making only two demands, i.e. job security and a written contract that there will be no discrimination for union membership.' "The actual facts of the issue are that the contract which the union demanded the district officers sign contains sixteen specific and definite demands. (These were published in The Journal on Friday.)

"The demands, if granted, would forbid the district to deal with any employee unless that person was a member of the union; it would forbid the district to employ any citizen of the district unless that person was a member of the union; it would forbid the district to terminate the services of any incompetent or otherwise unfit employee unless such termination were approved by the union; by what it calls 'mutual agreement,' it would compel the district to employ any physically unfit person, and thus thrust upon the taxpayers a costly medical and compensation risk, should that person be able to secure the approval of two private doctors selected by that person.

"The district officials have never refused to negotiate and deal with the union and its representatives. But the district cannot and will not recognize any union or any other group as the sole bargaining agent for employees to the exclusion of other citizen-employees who may not choose to join the union. The district as a governmental division of the state is specifically exempted from the Wagner Labor act. Furthermore, the Wagner act itself does not require even private employers to enter into signed agreements with union groups.

"Several sections of the union's proposed contract contain demands for employment practices that are now in effect and have been in effect since the inception of the aqueduct job. In these particulars, the union is asking for benefits and protection which the district has always accorded its employees."

Foot Specialist Leaves Sebastian's

The Burn's Cuboid foot comfort demonstration now at Sebastian's Shoe store will terminate Saturday night, due to future booking dates of the foot expert in charge. Over 5000 people have taken advantage of the free service which has been a feature of the demonstration.

"There are undoubtedly hundreds of Orange county people still suffering from foot trouble that has positively been corrected," said Sebastian. "These sufferers certainly should take advantage of the few remaining days of our Cuboid demonstration."

BICYCLE RECOVERED

A bicycle theft reported Friday night was cleared Saturday when Bob Isenor, 935 West Camille street, told police the vehicle had been returned intact. The bicycle had been reported stolen from the city bowl.

Club No. 1, Tustin Club No. 1, Santa Ana Club No. 2 and Fullerton Club No. 1. The Fullerton club will meet in Anaheim park on West Commonwealth; the others in their regular meeting places.

Millinery Store To Locate Here

The Marine Millinery has leased the store room formerly occupied by the Barnard Dress shop at 211 West Fourth street, and will open a popular priced millinery and handbag shop within 10 days.

Mr. Garell, general manager for the concern, stated that only local salespeople will be employed in the store, and all alterations to the building will be done by local contractors.

Mr. Garell, assisted by Mrs. Garell will be in charge of the store at the opening.

American Sheep Help Manchoukuo

DAIREN, Manchoukuo. (AP) — More than 1000 immigrants have arrived here from Seattle to play an important role in the economic life of the Japanese-created state of Manchoukuo. The immigrants are sheep bred in the Rocky Mountains states, particularly Utah and Wyoming.

Emperor Kang-Teh bought them as the nucleus of a greater family of sheep to roam the broad plains of Manchoukuo and add to the empire's growing prosperity.

Reich to Honor American Tree

BERLIN. (AP) — The American great-grandmother of all the German acacia trees is dead.

In 1710, when acacias were unknown in Germany, this tree came to the court of Frederick I in a pot from America. The King gave it to his minister, Heinrich Rudiger von Ilgen, who planted it on his estate. In 227 years the tree mothered hundreds of thousands of others all over Germany. It reached a height of 82 feet.

The trunk is to be preserved as a botanical memorial.

KUDO WRESTLES PICO IN MIXED RULES BOUT HERE

ALICE IN WONDERLAND

ALICE MARBLE
Of the U. S., is defending champion and will be seeded No. 1, in the women's tennis singles championships at Forest Hills, N. Y., starting Thursday. Alice knows her toughest competition probably will come from abroad. She wonders which of the foreign entries will be most difficult.

CHILE
Has sent Anita Lizana, its fourth-ranking "male" player, to try to wrest the U. S. crown. Ahead of Anita in Chilean ranking are two girls, and her brother, Anita earned the rating playing in men's tournaments—there wasn't any competition for her among the girls.

POLAND
Has assigned Jadwiga Jedrzejowska, its best girl tennis player, the task of winning the American championship. Always dangerous, Jadwiga has already beaten Queen Alice something like four times this year. She's the hardest hitter among the women net stars.

ENGLAND
Has the largest delegation—the entire Wightman cup team will enter the U. S. tournament. Kay Stammers (above) ranks right with Alice Marble when it comes to good looks. Kay usually has trouble playing away from home, but may reach top form.

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Good catches of halibut, barracuda, bass from barge.
SAN CLEMENTE.—White sea bass, some yellowtail, along with more plentiful bull bass and barracuda—30-pound sea bass largest recent. Marlin sighted off-shore but won't take bait.
SAN DIEGO.—Few marlin. Yellowtail fishing encouraging.
ENSENADA.—Live bait and trolling boat fishermen taking barracuda, bass, white sea bass, some yellowtail. Surf fishing good at El Morro point, two miles north.

CARD TONIGHT HAS MILLER VS. MARTINEZ

Dick Lever Battles Vic Hill; Stecher Faces Del Kunkle

Two three-fall, one-hour time limit matches, one a mixed jiu-jitsu and catch-as-catch-can affair between Kiman Kudo and Juan Olguivel-Pico, handsome Basque-Mexican wrestler, share the spotlight tonight at the Orange County Athletic club on Highway 101. The show gets under way promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

The other stellar bout features Ignacio Martinez, 230-pound Mexican youth, and Ironman Louie Miller, rough and tumble Bulgarian, who has been winning consistently here for the past few weeks and is generally regarded as one of the most entertaining "meanies" on the padded mat.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Double main event—Juan Olguivel-Pico vs. Kiman Kudo, two out of three falls, one hour; Ironman Louie Miller vs. Ignacio Martinez, two out of three falls, one hour. Special event—Dick Lever vs. Vic Hill, one fall, 30-minute; opener—Count Del Kunkle vs. Young Stecher, one fall, 30-min. time limit.

Pico will be out to bring back to the Mexican fans the prestige they felt was lost last week when Martinez won by a technical decision in the spectacular grappling of the little brown wrestler from Japan.

Martinez will be out to climb back into the driver's seat by sending Miller the way of all flesh. Both Pico and Martinez face difficult tasks.

Under different rules Pico might enter the ring favored to win but with the men meeting in a mixed bout, his edge isn't there. In fact, many fans are of the opinion the contest favors Kudo.

Martinez might make the grade. Miller is a notorious rougher and stands to be disqualified. Besides Martinez has demonstrated that he is an exceptionally polished wrestler and with weight, height and youth in his favor he may prove Miller's match.

Fans anticipate two hectic affairs and plenty of excitement in the preceding bouts, one of which shows Vic Hill, who jumped into prominence last week. Hill meets Dick Lever of Tennessee.

Count Del Kunkle and Young Stecher, two of the most popular boys showing here, clash in the opening bout. It should be a scientific match from law.

SPORT SLANTS

By TOM (PAF) PAPROCKI

Not until Gus Mancuso broke his finger in the middle of July did Harry Danning get a chance to show his worth behind the plate. Harry has been with the New York Giants off and on for the last six years. Four years he spent on the Giants' bench.

In all that time he has had only one real test outside of an occasional relief job. Two years ago he had a few weeks of steady work, but hardly enough to hit his stride.

When Mancuso was put on the sidelines it was up to Danning to carry on. Harry was a bit rusty at first, just as any pitcher would be. He did a fair job behind the plate but his ball fell far below the Mancuso standard. Months of idleness on the bench had robbed his batting eye of its keenness. In the first half dozen games he hardly hit the size of his collar.

To add to his woes he suffered a leg injury but there was no time to rest. Despite his handicap his batting mark started to climb. He enjoyed a big day against the Phillies in Baker bowl when he punched out a triple and four singles to ring up "five for five."

As soon as Danning got his bearings behind the plate there was a noticeable improvement on the part of the Giants' pitching staff. In 13 of 16 games Danning handled the starting pitcher was still tossing 'em up when the game ended. A pretty good indication that Danning was doing a fair job of pacing the pitchers and making his selections with good judgment.

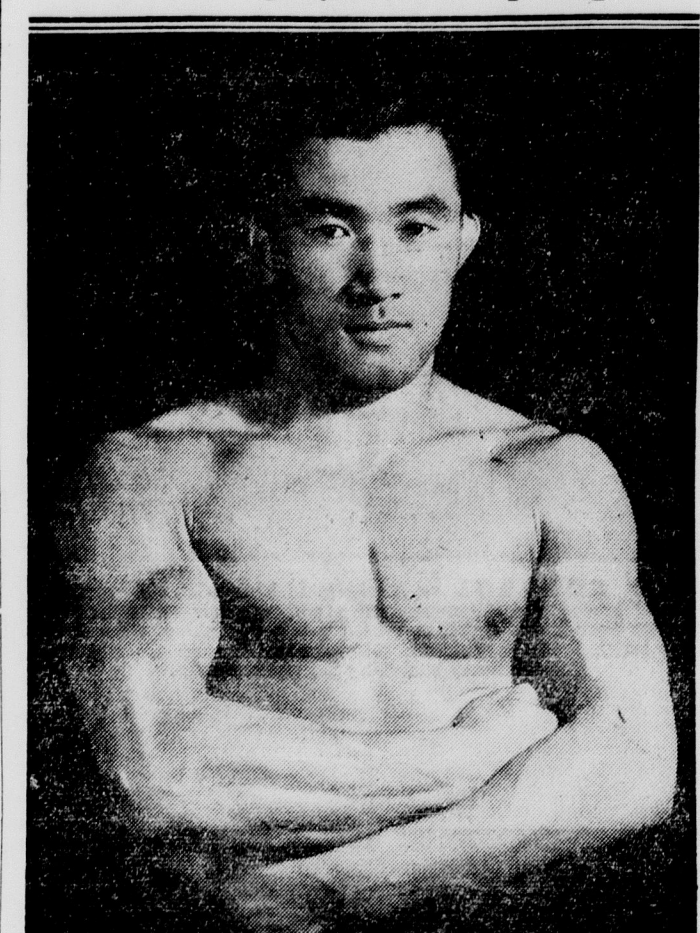

Much credit for the Giants' return to the thick of the pennant fight must go to the hawk-nosed catcher. The way Danning has stood up under pressure indicates Bill Terry has no cause for worry as far as his catching problem is concerned.

Mancuso is no sure shot to take over his old job when he is ready to return. As long as Harry keeps on getting results, chances are the regular catching job will be his.

Cockroaches were originally confined to the tropics. They spread with the increase of commerce.

San Bernardino Nine Host To Smith's Stars Tonight

Japan's Mighty Mite in Spotlight

Kiman Kudo, who fans hail as the cleverest 178 pounds of wrestling machinery ever to perform at the Orange County Athletic club, gets his biggest chance ever tonight against Don Juan Pico, Mexican idol, in a combination jiu-jitsu and catch-as-catch-can feature.

SACS RETAIN LEAD AS PADRES DROP SECOND HOME SERIES

By the Associated Press

Sacramento, barely taking its series with the "better late than never" San Francisco Mission Reds, retained its half game lead in the Pacific Coast league today as San Diego lost its second series of the season on its home diamond.

The Missions, who won the cellar championship almost at the start of the season in recent weeks, have been making things unpleasant for the leaders and aspiring leaders. Sunday they split a twin bill with the Solons. They took the "curtain-raiser" with the aid of five Senator errors, 5 to 3, but the league leaders came back to take the nightcap, 4 to 3, when Buster Adams put one out of the series last Tuesday. They won the opener, 3 to 1, behind Bill Posedel's four-hit pitching.

In the second game, Manuel Salvo turned in his second two-hit performance of the week as the Padres won, 10 to 1.

Seattle, after taking six out of seven from Los Angeles a fortnight ago, reverted to form last week and dropped six out of seven to the third place San Francisco Seals. A double win by the Seals climaxed the series yesterday. The scores were 13 to 7 and 8 to 3.

Three games behind the Seals, Los Angeles did not fare well at the hands of Oakland, dropping two, 5 to 2 and 4 to 2, to give the A's a four out of seven games. Three baggers by Ernie Koy and Bill Raimondi helped the Oakland Hare of England, Yvon Petra of France, Fumiteru Nakano of Japan, Hideo Nishimura of Japan, Jacques Brugnon of France, C. M. Jones of England and Ross Wilson of Canada.

PLAYOFF FOR NIGHTBALL TITLE OPENS

Anaheim to Invade Huntington Beach Tomorrow Night

Under the now widely-used Shaughnessy plan, which goes into effect in the National Nightball league this season, Santa Ana's Stars put in their bid for the 1937 championship at San Bernardino Friday night.

Manager "Doc" Smith's local lads, who have weathered a 25-game stand to place second in team hitting, will send their right-hander, Jack Dugan, against Bob (Lefty) Fowler of the Ponies in the first of a four-out-of-seven game series at Parris Hill park, San Bernardino, at 8:15.

HERE WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The second game will be played at Santa Ana Wednesday night, the third at San Bernardino Friday night.

Huntington Beach and Anaheim, the other teams involved in the Shaughnessy playoffs, will launch their four-out-of-seven game series at Huntington Beach tomorrow night. The second game will be played at Anaheim Thursday night.

Survivors of the two series will meet in a similar four-out-of-seven game series for the 1937 title.

Smith plans to employ the revamped lineup that collected 13 hits off Lyle Morse here Friday night.

San Francisco's second baseman, will lead off "Doc" Smith, second baseman, will swing second, followed by Nan Coots, rightfielder; Joe Wallin, catcher; Fred Wiemer, centerfielder; Bob Schwarm, leftfielder; Charley Comstock, shortstop; Bob Mott, first base; and Pitcher Jack Dugan.

Frank Lukor, second baseman and outfielder, will be in reserve. Admission for all playoff games will be 25 cents.

PICTURE NEWS

THE YANKS ARE COMING, was the cry 20 years ago in the "war to end all wars," and today American troops are again headed across the sea. This time it's the Marines, ordered to Shanghai to protect American lives. Members of the sixth regiment, machine-gun battery, went through landing drills before departure from San Diego for the scene of Sino-Japanese hostilities in China. This preparedness keeps them in shape for possible eventualities there.

NO NIGHTSHIRT is this strange-looking garb worn by stern-faced Premier Mussolini, but a miner's outfit he donned in Sicily.

CROP CONTROL on a wholesale basis with old "Mother Nature" herself plowing under acres at a time is being witnessed by farmers near Buhl, Idaho. A whole valley is sinking, crumbling away fertile lands. Tiny figures (above) show the size of the gorge. Experts seem baffled by the phenomenon.

SPOTLIGHT

Fiery former Senator Tom Heflin of Alabama was quick to toss his hat into the ring for the seat of Hugo Black, now justice of the U. S. Supreme Court. Governor Bibb Graves appointed his wife, Dixie, to serve until the election next spring.

Chief threat to Alice Marble in defense of her national women's tennis singles crown is expected to be Helen Jacobs (left), former queen of the courts, who is making a strong comeback. She won her match with Kay Stammers in the Wightman Cup play to establish her bid.

Dapper former New York Mayor, Jimmie Walker, who looks more like 36 than 56, received virtual assurance of a lifetime pension when he was named assistant counsel of transit commission, just two weeks before he would have been disqualified for absence of five years.

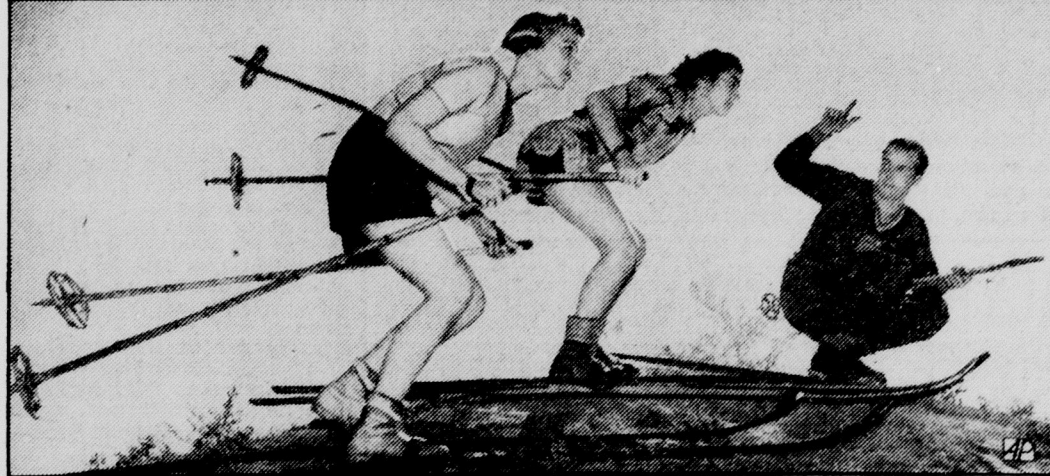

Little attention had been centered upon Harry M. Woodring since he succeeded the late George Dern as war secretary until the present crisis in China. Since Sino-Jap hostilities broke out, the former Kansan, thrust into the center of a busy stage, conferred often with the President.

TWO CIGARETTES light the hearth-side of this 13-year-old girl, for she's Mrs. Lin-ton Whittemire, Flowery Branch, Ga., child bride.

DOING 'THE BIG APPLE' is the latest dance craze of the south, but it seems to have gotten into the blood of Shortstop Appling of the Chicago White Sox. What he's really doing is tossing to first after putting out Hal Trosky of Cleveland who vainly slid for second base.

JUMPING SEASON'S WITHIN REASON if you just know how it's done. These MacAlester College, Minn., co-eds didn't wait for snow to start their skiing, but just started out on browned grass slopes. U. S. Olympic ski jump champion Sverre Fredheim is shown giving some pointers to Dorothy Eginton and Lorraine Beavens.

A DAY AT THE RACES at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., found Mrs. C. S. Howard of San Francisco discussing with Crooner Bing Crosby the pony pasture. Neither could complain over the financial aspect of the business, for Mrs. Howard's "Seabiscuit" is a top money winner this year, while Crosby's track in California showed a profit of $75,000 at the end of its first season.

CLOTHES MAKE THE MAN, at least the uniform and brass buttons of eight-year-old Bernard Blackwell of Atlanta, Ga., seem to carry a lot of weight with the ladies. The lad has just completed five years as a duly commissioned member of the city's police department.

BOLD AND SILENT Lt.-Gen. Kiyoshi Katsuki, whose only words are commands, directs Japan's hopes and destiny in North China.

LIFE BEGINS at 140 for Om Mohammed El Cheikha, reported the world's oldest woman, who lives near Zagazig, Egypt, claims to be 142.

PILGRIMS' PROGRESS since the time of the Mayflower has brought this mighty sky clipper which will span the Atlantic between New York and London, starting next year. The diagram here shows: 1. Anchor hatch. 2. Seaman's compartment. 3. Bridge where flying controls are located. 4. First pilot. 5. Second pilot. 6. Radio direction finder loop. 7. Navigation compartment. 8. ## BANK DEPOSITS HERE UP MILLION DOLLARS

BUSINESS IN SANTA ANA
SHOWS GAINCash in Local Vaults
More Than Year Ago

Business in Santa Ana is good. Plenty good! Much better even than last year.

Figures announced today by presidents of two local banks gave a golden picture of the steady improvement in local business condition.

Bank deposits are up. In the two banks alone deposits are nearly a million dollars ahead of last year.

RAPID PROGRESS

Last year at this time the First National bank had on deposit $10,424,611.86. Today it has deposits amounting to $11,259,296.72. This is a big increase, amounting to exactly $834,684.86, according to President A. I. Mellenthin of the First National.

The Commercial National bank also has shown great progress during the past year, according to A. C. Hasenjaeger, executive vice-president. Hasenjaeger said that deposits in the bank have increased about $100,000, and that an equal amount of money more has been loaned out during the past year.

ENTHUSIASTIC

The First National has more cash on hand and due from banks than was the case a year ago. Last year the figure was $3,132,380.77, while now it is $3,952,246.35, an increase of $819,865.58. The increase represents the extra money depositors have over last year.

President Mellenthin of the First National expressed considerable enthusiasm over the business conditions in Santa Ana and Orange county. He said that lima bean money, and money from citrus and other crops, is starting to pour into the county, stimulating trade of every kind.

'BLUEBEARD'
TRIAL DATE SET

CINCINNATI. (AP)—Common Pleas Judge Charles S. Bell today set Oct. 11 as the trial date for Mrs. Anna Hahn, 31-year-old German immigrant charged with the deaths of two elderly Cincinnati men.

Intimation that the state might try Mrs. Hahn for the poison death of Jacob Wagner, 78, instead of George Gsellman, 67, brought objections from the defense.

Wagner died June 3 and Gsellman July 6.

Paralysis Hits
Fort Collins

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP)—The Fort Collins city council, taking official note of an outbreak of infantile paralysis here, ordered today that all Sunday schools be closed and children 15 years old or under be denied admission to theaters, city parks and the public library.

The opening of schools, set for Sept. 1, was ordered delayed "until further notice."

The total number of officially reported cases in and near Fort Collins, northern Colorado community of 12,000, climbed to 22 today. Two persons have died.

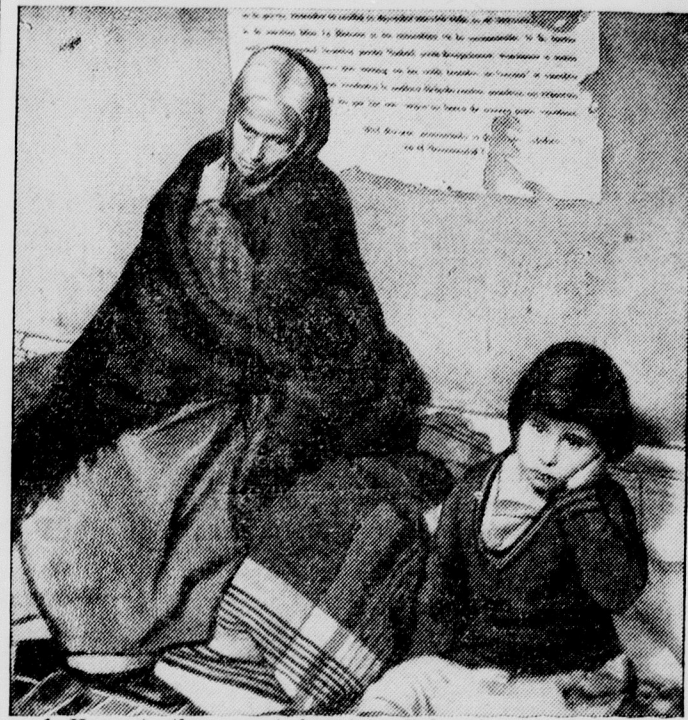

Sailors Will
Ask 'War Bonus'

NEW YORK. (AP)—Union representatives of the crew of the American pioneer steamship Wichita, en route for China from Baltimore with airplanes and barbed wire, will ask a "war bonus" of $250 per man, they said today.

Representatives of the national maritime union, C. I. O. affiliate, will present the request to the federal maritime commission on Monday and ask that it be applied to all ships flying in the Chinese or Spanish war zones.

What to Do—

If War Breaks Out While You're Abroad

1. Hurry to the nearest American diplomat.
2. If warned in time, establish a bank account in a neighboring country that promises to be peaceful.
3. Lay in a week's food supply. Any more would be futile for no telling which way the bombing will turn.
4. Notify the nearest American foreign service man where you are so he can throw out the life-line if it becomes necessary.

(By the AP Feature Service)

Should war break out unexpectedly, says the United States state department, it's every man for himself until he reaches the protective wing of the nearest American ambassador, minister, consul or vice consul. Then it's up to the diplomat.

He will know local food handlers. He will know the military leader who moves in, and the people with autos and wagons, and with milk for the babies. He will be judge, parent, counselor, doctor and information service.

He will get you safe passage to water and will have somebody's battleship waiting there. You will pile on with other war refugees and ride to the nearest safe spot in another country. At that point another American foreign service officer will be ready to cable the folks for a little cash to buy you a ticket home.

Drive for Pension Plan
Slated in Congress

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Demands for more liberal old age pensions may increase the complexities of the next regular session of congress.

Little was heard of the subject during the recent session, but Representative Crosby (D., Pa.), chairman of an unofficial steering committee supporting the so-called general welfare bill—all that remains of the Townsend Old Age Pension plan—said a determined drive for its enactment will be made next year.

During the recess, he said, members of the steering committee will endeavor to stimulate support for the legislation by speeches in the field. Also, he said, efforts will be made as soon as congress reconvenes to unite all congressional old age pension advocates under one banner.

HUNGARY DEBT
ACTION LAUDED

WASHINGTON. (AP)—Secretary Hull hailed today as a "heartening sign" a decision by Hungary to begin repaying its post-war debt to the United States—even at the slow rate of $19,656 a year.

He commented with evident pleasure that Hungary recognizes the importance of "conserving the sanctity" of obligations between nations.

Hungary owes $2,292,025 for flour sent it during a 1920 famine. It is one of the European nations which owe the United States a total of more than $12,000,000,000 on war and post-war debts.

Finland alone has kept its payments on schedule.

Autos Without Drivers Collide

Two cars with no drivers collided with one another yesterday in front of 1322 West Fourth street.

Alex G. Salcido, route 2, box 599, Santa Ana, was cranking his car while it was in gear. The car started to run, and crossed the street, colliding into a truck registered to Henry Hernandez, 602 Daisy street. Only minor damages resulted.

HONORS FOR GIRL HEROINE
ARE SOUGHTThrilling Sea Rescue
May Be Recognized

New honors for the Los Angeles girl, Barbara Shafer, 18, who saved Betty Allen, 13, of Ontario, from drowning last Wednesday at Bay Shore camp, were being sought today by the Orange county council of the American Red Cross.

The Red Cross will request a certificate of merit for the girl who proved herself a heroine, it was announced by Alfred Higgins, chairman of the Orange county council.

PROVES ABILITY

Barbara Shafer joined the Senior Red Cross Life Saving class at Bay Shore camp, taught by J. Martin Clark, of Balboa, a Red Cross examiner. She had completed the instruction in life saving and water safety, and had been given part of her senior tests by Margaret Glenn, Santa Ana, also a chapter examiner.

Miss Shafer's rescue demonstrated conclusively that she was fully qualified to meet the obligations of a senior membership which the Red Cross life saving service carries, Miss Glenn said today.

Swimming too far from shore, Miss Allen became exhausted, and was drowning when Miss Shafer, dressed in beach clothes, removed her shoes and swam to the rescue.

GAVE FIRST AID

Using the training she had received, the girl brought to shore the younger girl, who while not yet unconscious, was too weak to swim. She carried her to a place on the beach and administered the proper first aid treatment by wrapping her in two blankets and keeping her warm and quiet until Miss Allen had fully recovered her strength.

The Red Cross life saving examiners in the county have been conducting life saving classes on the unguarded county beaches in cooperation with Dana Lamb of the sheriff's office, who is in charge of the beach patrols.

TWO PROWLERS
SOUGHT HERE

Officers today were searching for two prowlers who have been active in Santa Ana for the past week. Complaints regarding the two have been received by police over the week-end.

A check-up of prowlers in the past several months has revealed an average of approximately 15 per month. Many of the reports received by officers, however, are not prowlers or Peeping Toms at all, Chief Floyd Howard said.

W. Johnson, 1438 Maple street, reported to police over the week-end that a prowler had come to the north side of the house, but had fled when Johnson gave chase.

Another prowler was reported by Russell Rowland, 1025 West Camille, who said Mrs. R. K. Dobson, 1027 West Camille, had reported someone had kicked at her back door.

Mrs. L. H. Perley, 1215-B North Ross street, reported a prowler was in her house about midnight last night. Her son had seen the person, she said, and chased him. Nothing was missing, a check-up revealed.

FINLEY FINDS
S. A. ALL
'SPRUCE' UP'Rotary Delegate Back
From Big Conclave

Things in Santa Ana certainly look "spruced up," according to Col. S. H. Finley, secretary of the Metropolitan Water district, who has just returned to his home, 1633 East Fourth street, after a three months' trip in Europe.

The colonel attended the international convention of Rotary International in Nice, France, as a delegate from the Santa Ana club. After convention, Col. and Mrs. Finley visited places of interest in Egypt, Palestine, Italy, northern France, Belgium, Holland, and the British Isles, before returning home, late last week.

One of the outstanding events of the Rotary conclave was the appearance of Paul Harris, Chicago man who founded the club 25 years ago. Another peculiar incident was the nomination of a Frenchman for president of the international by a German delegate.

The Santa Ana man reported a fine spirit of cooperation existing among delegates from all over the country. This is in line with the main objectives of the organization, that of international cooperation among nations, Finley said.

Finley took the gavel of the Santa Ana club to the convention. The gavel has been used at every Rotary international convention for the past 12 years.

HIRSCHFELDER
WELFARE HEAD

SACRAMENTO. (AP)—The state welfare board organized under the new law effective yesterday chose Erwin M. Hirschfelder, San Francisco manufacturer, as acting chairman.

Mrs. Florence L. Turner, state director of social welfare under the old law, was elected acting director of the department. The new law gives the board the right to name the director of the department. Formerly the governor made the appointment.

At the next meeting Sept. 23 and 24 the board will elect a permanent chairman and a permanent director. It is expected by that time Governor Merriam will have filled the two vacancies on the board.

Missing Woman
Flyer Found

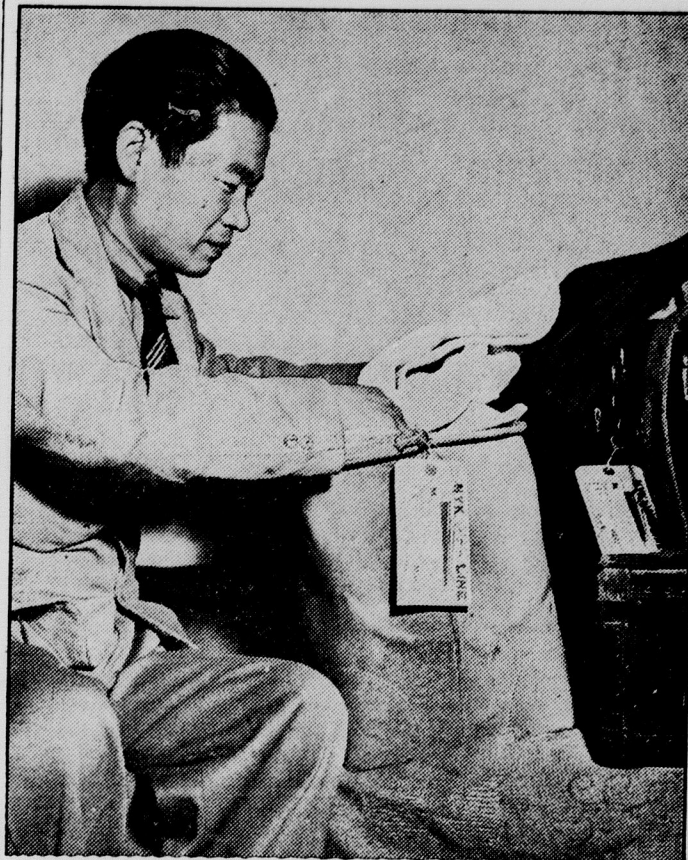

GLENDALE. (AP)—Mrs. George Weston, 32-year-old aviatrix, reported by her husband and children to have been kidnapped, was found today seated in a parked automobile in the Highland Park district between Los Angeles and Glendale.

Radio Officers W. G. Robinson and D. Brady said they found the woman asleep in the rear part of the car with a man companion asleep on the front seat. The officers reported the woman said she and the man, with her husband, had been drinking earlier in the evening.

BATTERY STOLEN

Theft of a new plate battery from the unlocked rear compartment of his car was reported to police by G. W. O'Brien, 2404 Santiago street, Saturday morning.

Called to War By Japan

Roso Hirada, 35, was the first Japanese in Los Angeles to receive orders to return to his native land for military duty since the outbreak of the Sino-Japanese war.

NRS AIDS JOB
INSURANCE
PLAN HEREService to Be Given
In Local Office

Service to thousands of workers of Orange county who may become eligible for unemployment compensation after Jan. 1, 1938, will be distributed through the Reemployment service, it was announced today.

The Santa Ana office is included in a list of 67 cities of the state through which the service will be given.

SURVEY MADE

John F. Chambers, Oakland, and John S. Horn, Los Angeles, labor's representatives on the Unemployment Reserves commission, made the announcement today following a survey of offices of the California State Employment service.

Through an arrangement made some time ago with the National Reemployment Service, all offices in California of the federal organization were amalgamated with the California State Employment service.

"Because these offices are not a part of the California State Employment service, the Unemployment Reserves commission will be better enabled to serve workers of California when the benefit paying period begins," Chambers said.

FUNDS MATCHED

Horn pointed out this expansion of the employment service will be financed largely from Washington, D. C., through the United States Employment Service in the department of labor which matches funds appropriated by the California legislature. The Social Security board will augment the California State Employment service budget to care for the program of benefit paying.

All funds for administration of unemployment compensation are paid directly by the Social Security board. None of the money contributed by employers and employees of California is used in administrative expenses. This money is turned over to the Unemployment Trust Fund which will be drawn upon after the first of the year to pay compensation, according to Horn.

A bicycle owned by Billie Edwin Jones, 1006 West Bishop street, was reported stolen from the corner of Fourth and Birch streets between 7 and 9:30 p. m. Saturday.

MISSING CAR

J. E. Headley, 117 North Sycamore, reported to police yesterday that a car belonging to Joseph Brusca, Y. M. C. A., had been stolen last Friday at Pomona.

Tea Given At Borchards' Home

One Hundred Attend Affair Honoring Recent Bride

Extending the gracious hospitality of her lovely ranch home to more than a hundred guests Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Antone Borchard entertained at a formal tea complimenting the charming bride of her son, John Vincent Borchard.

The affair was characterized as a "Pink Tea" for that delicate color was carried out in all appointments, with myriads of baby asters used throughout the living and dining rooms.

Mrs. Borchard greeted her guests in a hostess frock of black marquisette, while the bride wore a white afternoon frock flowered in soft rose. The latter's mother, Mrs. E. Neagle of Santa Barbara, wore soft grey lace-trimmed cape, and all three ladies in the receiving line wore corsages of gardenias and bovaria.

The two sisters of the bride, Miss Margaret and Miss Angela Neagle, presided over the handsome tea table, wearing their lovely bridesmaids' frocks of pink net and taffeta. Moving about the rooms and serving guests were the other bridesmaids of the impressive church wedding July 21, Miss Bernice and Miss Wilma Borchard of Santa Ana, Miss June Vance, and Miss Katherine Hiff of Santa Barbara. These four, too, were attired in their attendants' gowns of rosy net.

Musical interludes were provided by a niece of the hostess, Miss Alice Borchard of Santa Ana, and by Miss Margaret King of Los Angeles, both of whom played the piano.

After this first formal presentation of Mrs. Borchard to the matrons and misses of her new home city, many smaller affairs are to be anticipated. The young Borchards are residing temporarily in the Ebel apartments pending completion of their new home near the elder Borchard on the ranch west of Santa Ana.

TO MEET THURSDAY

The Missionary Society of the Orange Avenue Christian church will have their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Ola Butcher, 1125 South Birch street, at 2:30 p. m. Thursday.

NORTH WIND

In the gourd of heaven
A great stone rattles,
And from the Dragon of the North
The snow scales fly.
Blow not thy icy breath,
For the chill eats of my flesh
And gnaws by aching bones.

"Warp and Woof"

FISHERMAN'S SONG
These things I remember, beloved my own,
Red-winged blackbirds afloat at dawn
Over the marsh as the mist comes on;
Tail wolf-grass where the tide has gone;
Silver reefs adrench with brine,
Trough of the sea and a troling line,
Pull of the nets and the breaker's din;
The smooth green slatch of the water's roll
As the fishing fleet comes in!
But best I remember, beloved my own,
The hours with you that my heart has known!

"Oregonian Verse"

THE STORM
My tent is the dusk
The fire-birds fly over it:
My spirit follows as a hunter
Whose arrows are but dreams.
They fall about me like the rain
... or tears ...
As I sit brooding, wrapped in the blanket of the night.
But hark! to the shrieking of the wind
That comes like an invisible hawk
I can hear him flapping his wings!
He is the Hawk of the Storm God,
Whose moccasins are the gray vapor;
Whose staff is the forked lightning;
Whose voice is the thunder.
When he speaks the trees bow down before him;
He makes the river grasses quake;
The wild geese honk in fright as they flee
Before the Hawk of the Wind that screeches after.
I can hear him flapping his wings!

SUIT OF LACE

A pale pink pleated chignon scarf is ascot-tied at the throat of a smart summer suit of light blue cotton lace. Other accessories for the suit include a dark blue cartwheel hat and dark blue gloves. The smart combination cigaret case and lighter looks like gold but does not scratch easily.

Book Review of the Week

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of weekly book reviews of current publications which will appear each Monday in The Journal.

"One Life, One Kopeck" by Walter Duranty

(Courtesy Treasure Isle Gift Shop, 506 North Main)

By MOLLY HARVEY

Every newspaper man I have ever encountered in fiction dreams of the great book which will climax his writing career. But the proverbial newspaper man (I am still speaking in terms of fiction) never has the time and inclination simultaneously to achieve these dreams. Thus it may be surprising to those who judge life by the novels they have read that Walter Duranty, who wrote the fascinating book, "I Write as I Please," has now completed his first novel, and is contributing short stories to some of the current magazines.

The title, "One Life, One Kopeck," is based on a Russian proverb meaning "life is worth living." Let this be a warning to the squeamish reader, for the book shows clearly the total disregard for human life and human suffering which characterizes Russia under the czars and during the revolution. Duranty is frankly sympathetic to the Red cause, and reports the most barbaric incidents in a casual, journalistic vein. One wonders if the 17 years' service as Moscow correspondent for the New York "Times" has made him a convert.

No novel written under explicit orders of the propaganda department could be more pleasing to Soviet officials. The hero, Ivan Petrovich, a peasant boy who became one of the key men in the Red army is an ardent idealist, eager to give his life if necessary that the next generation might forget about fighting and concentrate on building. He is strong, fearless, a born leader of men. His associates were men of the finest type. If at times they participated in shocking deeds, it was done reluctantly, and only because they placed blind obedience to party leaders above any other consideration.

SANTA ANAN HONORED AT LONG BEACH

Mrs. John J. Vernon was honored yesterday at a delightful barbecue dinner party given in the garden of the J. B. Nelson home at Long Beach. For many years Mrs. Vernon, whose anniversary is August 29th, and Mrs. Nelson, whose natal day is August 26th, have exchanged birthday parties. Yesterday's affair included the serving of a lovely birthday cake, and an exchange of gifts between hostess and honor guests, as well as the opening of many other pretty remembrances.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Vernon and their three daughters, Betty Louise, Mary, and Peggy. Dr. and Mrs. Nelson, and Mrs. Esther Nelson and Miss Bernadine Nelson of Mesa, Ariz.

LOUISIANANS VISIT IN BREAU HOME

Two residents of Lafayette, La., who are making their first visit to California, have been houseguests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Breau, 1103 Lowell street, who formerly lived in Lafayette.

Miss Louise and Miss Jeanne Vigneaux, the visitors here, have been complimented at several affairs, including a beach party in the Balboa island cottage of the Fred Earels where Mr. and Mrs. Breau and daughter Lillian were also guests.

Miss Sandra Breau, known on the screen as Sandra Cordey, returned to her home here to visit with the southern guests. She took them to the studio where she had just finished playing the lead in a western play, as an added courtesy.

WHITE-ELLIOTT RITES OCCUR AT RIVERSIDE

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. White today announced the marriage of their daughter Ruby to Martin Elliott, son of Mr. Nora Elliott of Laguna Beach.

The nuptials occurred August 27 at the Mission Inn in Riverside, and immediately afterward Mr. and Mrs. Elliott left on a northern honeymoon of two months' duration. They will spend some time in San Francisco and will continue north for the hunting season.

Upon their return they will make their home at Laguna, where he is manager of the Laguna Heights apartments. Both young people attended Santa Ana schools, and since her graduation the bride has been connected with the Santa Ana Linen Store.

SAN DIEGAN IS COMPLIMENTED AT PARTY

Miss Isabel Lindsay, 722 Halliday street, was hostess at a charming party in her home Friday afternoon honoring Miss Ann Grogan of San Diego, house guest of Miss Margaret Grant.

After the bridge play, Miss Virginia Bigelow won high prize, Mrs. Adelaide Lowe second, and a guest prize was awarded to Miss Grogan. Refreshments were served at the small tables centered with single rosebuds in bud vases.

Those present to meet the San Diego visitor were Miss Mary Coffman, Miss Pearl Nicholson, Miss Verna Wells, Miss Gladys Campbell, Miss Margaret Grant, Miss Virginia Bigelow, Mrs. Adelaide Lowe, Mrs. Wilbur Getty, Mrs. A. T. Schultz, and Mrs. John Green.

Bride - Elect Is Honored At Party

A dainty yellow and orchid color motif was followed Friday evening when Mrs. James Boone entertained at a delightful miscellaneous shower for Miss Marianna Jackson, autumn bride-to-be.

The shower was given by Mrs. Boone in the home of Mrs. Jack Walker, 1031 West Fairview street. The evening was spent in playing hearts, after which Mrs. Ira Duncan won high score, Mrs. Jack Walker second, and Mrs. Mary Burkhardt consolation.

Refreshments were served late in the evening to the guests at small card tables decorated with zinnias. The guest of honor opened her many pretty gifts just preceding the dessert course.

Miss Jackson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jackson, 569 North Glassell street, Orange, will become the bride of Ralph W. Boone later in the fall. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Boone, 569 North Olive street, Orange.

Included in the group of guests were Mrs. Herman Williams, Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, Mrs. Ira Duncan, and Mrs. John Jackson of Orange, Mrs. Frank Davis, Mrs. George Rupert, Mrs. Ernest Gill, Miss Eloise DuBois, Miss Helen Rupert, and Miss Kathryn Stockton, all of Santa Ana.

ALT-BLAKEMORE RITES READ IN HOME

During a very quiet home wedding ceremony held last Friday evening, Miss Violet E. Alt of Orange became the bride of Claude C. Blakemore of Santa Ana, with Bishop Sandstrom conducting the rites.

The bride, gowned in a lovely flowered crepe frock with white lace sleeves, carried a white bouquet. She was attended by her sister, Miss Cleopha Alt, wearing dusty pink taffeta and carrying a pastel bouquet.

Robert Blakemore, brother of the bridegroom, attended him as best man.

The rituals were performed in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Blakemore, 1015 North Parton street at 8 p. m. The home was beautifully decorated in green and white and was the scene of a reception following the ceremony, attended only by the immediate families of the couple.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Blakemore left immediately for a two weeks honeymoon trip to Seattle. They will make their home in Santa Ana upon their return.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Alt of Orange, the bride was educated in Illinois schools. She has been employed for some time as a secretary in the firm of Forgy, Reinhaus, and Forgy.

The groom is a graduate of Los Angeles public schools and of U. C. L. A. where he was a member of Sigma Pi fraternity. He is employed in the trust department of the First National bank.

BOOK CLUB HAS MEETING AT BALBOA ISLAND

Mrs. Fred E. Earel opened her Balboa Island summer home for Friday Book club late last week with the members gathering at the beach at 11 a. m.

Mrs. M. R. Daughters reviewed "Snow Covered Wagon" by Julia Cooley Altrochi, and following the review, the group went to Taylor's Tea room on the island for a no-hostess luncheon. Upon returning to the Earel cottage a roll call and discussion of the book were held.

Members present to hear the review and wish a bon voyage to Mrs. Earel, who will sail soon for Europe, were Mrs. W. A. Davidson, Mrs. A. H. Theal, Mrs. M. R. Daughters, Mrs. J. H. Bower, Mrs. E. I. Matthews, Mrs. Luella Macdonald, Mrs. E. C. Frandson, and Mrs. F. R. Schweitzer.

RAPPS RETURN FROM WEEK AT ARROWHEAD

The Howard Rapps, Miss Patty, and Howard, Jr., returned yesterday from a week's vacation at Arrowhead, with memories of many gay, informal affairs behind them.

The young people were visited by several groups of their college and high school friends, among them being Miss Margaret Munro, Bill Hawkins, Arthur Nisson, and Miss Betty Timmons as guests of Miss Patty, and Donner Spencer, Arthur Beard, and Clifton Steele, guests of Howard.

The attractive daughter of the home will leave Thursday for Indiana University, where she will enter her junior year, and will reside in the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

ATTENDS AFFAIR HONORING LOCAL WOMAN

Mrs. Ellen Smith, associate conductress of Santa Ana chapter, Order of Eastern Star, returned yesterday from Oakland where she attended a luncheon given in honor of Orange county's grand officers, Helen Edwards of Fullerton, who is associate grand conductress.

The affair was held at the Woman's City club in East Bay. Another affair attended by Mrs. Smith over the week-end was a reception in honor of the worthy grand matron, Rita Mae Cooper. Mrs. Smith was accompanied on the trip by Mr. and Mrs. James Austin of Laguna Beach and Miss Carrie Shepherd of Fullerton.

Garden Party Fetes Three Visitors

A former Santa Ana and her two Eastern companions were extended a delightful courtesy Saturday when they were entertained by Miss Martha Whitson, Miss Alma Karlsson and Miss Damaris Beaman at a garden party in the home of Miss Karlsson and Miss Beaman, 2120 North Ross street.

Dr. Dorothy Humiston, former resident of Santa Ana who is visiting with her family here now, and Miss Maude Moore and Miss Peggy Fullerton of Cedar Falls, Iowa, were the honor guests at the affair.

The guests gathered in the lovely garden where tables were already set for bridge. At the close of play, Miss Lena Thomas was awarded high prize, Miss Peggy Fullerton second, and Miss Frances Emans consolation.

Two large tables, decorated with Mexican figurines and gay pottery, were set in the garden for the serving of an appropriate Mexican dinner.

Included among the guests, all old friends of Dr. Humiston, were Miss Florence Linblin, Miss Hilda Linblin, and Miss Augusta Linblin of Beverly Hills, Mrs. Robert Steps, Miss Frances Emans, and Miss Dora Doyle of Los Angeles, Miss Mabel Wonders and Miss Emma Meyers of Long Beach, Mrs. Dorothy Barron of Oceanside, Miss Genevieve Humiston, Miss Lena Thomas, Miss Dorothy Decker and Mrs. Marshall Northcross and the three honorees.

GEORGE BOYD IS HOST AT BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. George Boyd, 701 Halliday street, gave a very pretty birthday party for her young son George, Jr. (Sonny Boy) last Friday afternoon.

Her table carried out a nautical theme with ship-pictured doilies under each plate, a steamer for a centerpiece, and individual ship favors made of ordinary bars.

Accompanying the candle-light birthday cake were many pretty gifts from the guests. Mrs. Charles E. Boyd and Mrs. Richard Metz assisted Mrs. Boyd in serving the honored guest's playmates, who included Edmund and Joan Wilcox, Don and Norman Metz, Dorothy Lou Kinyon, Robert McCollough, Stephen Selway, Bert Lightholt, Marilyn and Noel Palm, and Little Ann Boyd.

HIGH-HATTERS PICNIC AT CRYSTAL LAKE

Members of the High Hatters' club, recently reorganized with Jack Livesey as president, Jack Hubbard as recording secretary, and Harold Harper as financial secretary, enjoyed a picnic outing to Crystal Lake yesterday. They met weekly for supervised excursions throughout Southern California.

Reed Don as acts as supervisor, and often motorcycle officers are in attendance.

In the group were the officers, Rex Parks, Tommy Crodgy, Horace Birdsall, Harold Shell, Roger McCune, Howard Quiggle, Jud Palmer, James Gullledge, Max Peterson, Fred Krohe, Jr., Charles Dawson, Jack Newton, Chauncey Criss, Lowell Hart, Lloyd Trickey, Deering Waggner, and John Overton.

ATTEND RADIO BROADCAST

A group of five Santa Ana young women, including Miss Dorothy Preble, Miss Norma Kennedy, Miss Ella Nielson, Miss Virginia Taylor, Miss Elinor Wisner, and Miss Betty Vorce, were in Los Angeles Friday evening to attend the Alice Payne-Hal Kemp broadcast.

After the broadcast, the party went to Lindy's for dinner.

RETURNS FROM MONTH'S TRIP

Mrs. Martha Van de Walker returned yesterday morning from a four months' vacation trip in the middle-west, where she enjoyed visiting three children, a daughter, Mrs. M. C. Merrifield in South Bend, Ind., a son, H. M. Van de Walker in Battle Creek, Mich., and another son, R. K. Van de Walker in Kalamazoo, Mich.

Mrs. Van de Walker drove east and returned with Mr. and Mrs. Scott Smith, who visited friends in Illinois and in Fort Wayne, Ind.

MANY ATTEND PICNIC AT PARK

Nearly 50 members of the Mary Blair class of the First Presbyterian church with their families enjoyed a picnic last week at Anaheim park.

Outdoor amusements were supplemented by an interesting talk on character building and the responsibility of adults to their community, given by Miss Blair, and a history of the class presented by Mrs. Frank E. Jones.

AIRY CAPE SLEEVES

Short sleeves are as much a part of this summer's mode as shorter skirts. Here you see them—little more than shoulder caps—in a frock of white crepe embroidered with bright flowers. A flower printed crepe jacket, white hat and white buck shoes with fringed moccasin tongues are accents.

Mary Stoddard

Deserted Wife of Poker Player Should Let Him Have Games in His Home

Another husband has become a "poker addict." But this husband doesn't haunt cardrooms because he leads an unhappy home life. He's been happily wed for many years and has a nice family of children. He has confessed to his wife that the "poker habit" has become sort of a disease and he finds himself sort of invisibly "led" to the game.

This is just a suggestion to this puzzled wife and I have known of its working out perfectly in other similar cases:

Why don't you learn to play poker? Some evening when friend husband is home suggest that you and he have a game.

Or, one wife planned a "stag party" for her husband once a month and invited his friends, or had him do it, over to the house. She arranged refreshments in advance and then went to a movie or to visit some friend, arriving home in time to serve the refreshments. This worked out fine.

Dear Miss Stoddard: My problem has finally gotten to be too much for me and I have to get assistance. In the first place, let me assure you that my husband does love me in spite of all evidence to the contrary.

To begin with, we have been married many years and have two big children. Last year I was very ill and had to go to a sanitarium for several months. My mother took the children and cared for them without any help from us, financially. It took all we could manage to pay my expenses, my husband keeping only enough to live on.

While I was away he got into the habit of dropping in at a card room and playing poker. He was lonely and it helped to pass the time. He never lost or won any great sums and seemed to just about break even. When I returned six months ago, we decided to leave the children with my mother for a few more months until I was better able to look after them. My husband was more than attentive and pleased to have me back. It was like a second honeymoon.

About a month after my return he began to be late getting home and I naturally thought he had to work as he often does. Then one night he didn't get home till 10 o'clock and told me he'd been to the card room. He was sorry to have worried me and promised not to do it again. A week later he stayed out till 1 o'clock and for several nights he continued to stay out that late. Each time he was extremely sorry and begged me to forgive him and promised to try to do better.

We've been so happy for so many years that such conduct shocked me and at first I thought I understood but now after months of it and all his ignored promises I am beginning to wonder what it is all about. He never calls me and lets me know when he will be late and it is rather miserable not to ever know if a meal should be cooked and if so at what hour.

I've tried to get him to set a certain day or days for going to the card room, but he says that he can't do that. There aren't always men there to play on any one night. I've begged him to telephone me when he goes there, but he says that he never intends to stay and feels that it would be silly.

Couple Feted At Saturday Shower

Surprising both bride and groom elect, friends of Miss Miriam Powell and her fiancé, Paul Wright, gathered Saturday evening at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powell of Orange, and showered them with numerous personal gifts, as well as cans of kitchen supplies from which the labels had been removed. It was announced that the couple would wed Sept. 20 in the patio of the Orange Presbyterian church.

Hostess at the affair was Miss Powell's sister, Mrs. Oswald C. Ulrich of Anaheim, and she herself came in for her share of the surprise when gifts and birthday cakes were presented her in celebration of her birthday anniversary that day.

Many amusing games were played during the evening, with prizes awarded to I. A. Wright and Mrs. Otto Ulrich.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Wright, Albert Wright, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ulrich, Mrs. Clara Daus, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Powell, Thomas Powell, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Busch, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald C. Ulrich, and the two honor guests.

PAIR HOME FROM LONG TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Vigers have just returned to their home, 601 West Walnut street, after a two-week vacation trip during which they traveled 9000 miles.

They drove to Sequoia, Grant's park, Yosemite, Lake Tahoe, Donner Lake, Carson City, Lassen Volcanic park, Crater Lake, and the Oregon caves. They returned to Santa Ana via the Redwood highway, stopping briefly in San Francisco.

weak and selfish. This is the only weakness he's ever shown. In everything else he is strong. He is the most thoughtful man I know. Ever since our marriage he has given up his own pleasures to make more happiness for us all. He has never expressed a desire to go any place or do anything without first asking the children and me what we would like to do. Majority ruled, but he always tried to persuade the children to want to do what I suggested.

He seems to be lost, and I certainly am lost. Please help us to find our way home again. We're both unhappy. Sincerely, B. T. M.

Women May Still Be Lovely at 40

By JACQUELINE HUNT

Forty is the fashionable age at the moment. Her years of living and ripe experiences have given the woman of 40 a subtle charm that cannot be acquired in less time. She is—or should be—more poised, more understanding, better able to see the brighter side of life.

Make-up should be, for you, a fine art. You should use it as skillfully as Hollywood's master make-up experts. Experiment with a good foundation cream and with two shades of face powder, one slightly darker than the other to minimize the fullness under your chin and make heavy jaws or a not-quite-perfect nose seem more nicely proportioned.

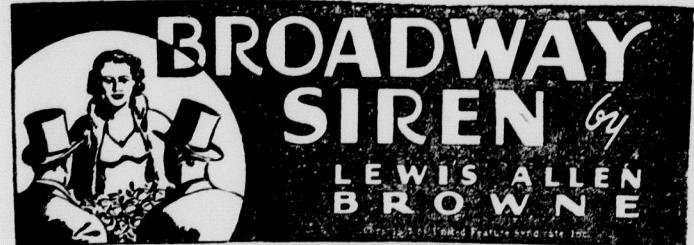

Use rouge, of course. You need it to give a youthful glow to your skin. But experiment with the placement and be sure the color is one that harmonizes perfectly with your own natural coloring. It should be sparingly applied and blended so softly into your own skin tones that it doesn't seem like rouge at all but a vitality and sparkle that belongs to you.

Use eye make-up, too. Select a shade that makes your eyes seem brighter and intensifies their color. Blend it outward beyond the edge of the eye itself and slightly up to the tips of the eyebrows to make the eyes seem larger.

Choose your lipstick carefully. It must not be too dark or heavy. Some of you may find that your paste cheek rouge is more satisfactory than a real lipstick, even though you may have to renew it oftener. If you use a lipstick the color should be rich but soft enough not to accent any lines around your mouth.

Use perfume, too, but avoid strong and suggestive odors. A subtle, slightly warm bouquet or one of the outdoorsy perfumes would be good for you. Apply them with an atomizer so you are surrounded by an elusive aura of fragrance.

Due to unavoidable delay, Saturday's chapter of "Broadway Siren" was omitted. Here is the missing episode:

BROADWAY SIREN by LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

Lola Larkin, English star in a Broadway revue, becomes a turbulent storm center because Winfield Balcom wants to marry her and his father retains Martha Carter, clever lawyer, to prevent this marriage. Also, Norman Standish, Englishman, brings his bride, Cora, from abroad and meets Lola secretly. His wife, discovering this, goes to her best friend, this same Martha Carter, and begs her to bribe Lola to keep away from Standish. This fails. Martha wants to help Cora because she is her best friend. She wants to help Balcom, senior, because she can help him secure an appointment that will mean a lot to her.

CHAPTER XXX
MARTHA sank down in her desk chair in her private office and stared miserably at the card in her hand:

GENDRON ESTATE
Cabot, Potter & Walsh

Which one of these three men had called at her office just now?

It was maddening to have missed him! He was going to Washington for an indefinite stay. He might have a friend there influential to the firm and give him that coveted appointment for business reasons.

Just then, Cora Standish telephoned. Martha groaned when Rosa told her that Mrs. Standish was on the wire. She was in no mood for more weeping and waiting from Cora.

"Well, Cora," she said, trying to keep the irritation out of her voice.

To her relief, Cora's voice sounded cheerful.

"I wanted to tell you that I am going to Delaware with Norman. Major and Mrs. Worthington are going with us. It's something about Norman's business."

"Fine, Cora! It's a good time," she said, "and that is worth while. Perhaps we can sail for England at once when we get back."

"Good! Let me know as soon as you get back."

Cora promised and hung up.

MARTHA, with the Gendron estate uppermost in her mind, went to the Waldritz to see Senator Balcom. She wished she could have made sure his son wouldn't marry Lola Larkin. Had she succeeded, he would have, in gratitude, moved heaven and earth to help her.

When she telephoned to his suite, he said he would come down. "I didn't tell Mrs. Balcom it was you, Miss Carter. She would have wanted you to come up and I was afraid you might have bad news. She is almost sick with worry now over Winfield," the senator explained. "The Larkin girl is back from the coast!"

Martha was surprised that he knew this.

"Someone said they saw her today, but I wasn't sure about it, senator. Does your son know it?" "That's how I found out. He and I were having lunch together and he was paged for a telephone call and when he came back he grinned like a Cheshire cat. I guessed in a minute what was up. From your dietic expression," I said, "I take it you have changed your plans about going to Hollywood to see our pictures are made."

Due to unavoidable delay, Saturday's chapter of "Broadway Siren" was omitted. Here is the missing episode:

BROADWAY SIREN by LEWIS ALLEN BROWNE

Lola Larkin, English star in a Broadway revue, becomes a turbulent storm center because Winfield Balcom wants to marry her and his father retains Martha Carter, clever lawyer, to prevent this marriage. Also, Norman Standish, Englishman, brings his bride, Cora, from abroad and meets Lola secretly. His wife, discovering this, goes to her best friend, this same Martha Carter, and begs her to bribe Lola to keep away from Standish. This fails. Martha wants to help Cora because she is her best friend. She wants to help Balcom, senior, because she can help him secure an appointment that will mean a lot to her.

CHAPTER XXX
MARTHA sank down in her desk chair in her private office and stared miserably at the card in her hand:

GENDRON ESTATE
Cabot, Potter & Walsh

Which one of these three men had called at her office just now?

It was maddening to have missed him! He was going to Washington for an indefinite stay. He might have a friend there influential to the firm and give him that coveted appointment for business reasons.

Just then, Cora Standish telephoned. Martha groaned when Rosa told her that Mrs. Standish was on the wire. She was in no mood for more weeping and waiting from Cora.

"Well, Cora," she said, trying to keep the irritation out of her voice.

To her relief, Cora's voice sounded cheerful.

"I wanted to tell you that I am going to Delaware with Norman. Major and Mrs. Worthington are going with us. It's something about Norman's business."

"Fine, Cora! It's a good time," she said, "and that is worth while. Perhaps we can sail for England at once when we get back."

"Good! Let me know as soon as you get back."

Cora promised and hung up.

MARTHA, with the Gendron estate uppermost in her mind, went to the Waldritz to see Senator Balcom. She wished she could have made sure his son wouldn't marry Lola Larkin. Had she succeeded, he would have, in gratitude, moved heaven and earth to help her.

When she telephoned to his suite, he said he would come down. "I didn't tell Mrs. Balcom it was you, Miss Carter. She would have wanted you to come up and I was afraid you might have bad news. She is almost sick with worry now over Winfield," the senator explained. "The Larkin girl is back from the coast!"

Martha was surprised that he knew this.

"Someone said they saw her today, but I wasn't sure about it, senator. Does your son know it?" "That's how I found out. He and I were having lunch together and he was paged for a telephone call and when he came back he grinned like a Cheshire cat. I guessed in a minute what was up. From your dietic expression," I said, "I take it you have changed your plans about going to Hollywood to see our pictures are made."

The Women's Home Missionary society of the First Methodist church will meet Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the church social hall.

CHAPTER XXXI

MARTHA CARTER stood on the sidewalk at the Waldritz and watched the smiling Winfield Balcom leap into his new car. It was evident that Lola had not given up her apartment, for Winfield was in the right direction for it.

It would do no good to go back and tell Senator Balcom about this. Suppose he did follow Win? A man cannot step in and forbid another of twenty-eight from marrying, without precipitating a quarrel.

No, that wouldn't do at all. Martha realized. Human nature was not often yielding especially where a couple of young and headstrong lovers were concerned.

Martha's shoulders sagged wearily as she turned her steps toward her attractive bachelor girl apartment. There she tried to forget Standish and Winfield and Lola and even the Gendron estate appointment that now seemed lost to her.

Lola, in a summer evening gown, was radiant as she ushered Winfield into her apartment.

"Darling," he exclaimed, "I never saw you so beautiful!" "You know just what to say to a girl, Win. Of course you say it to all girls."

"Lo-lol!" he exclaimed, so plaintively that Imogene, bringing in cocktails, almost giggled.

Lola patted his cheek and sat down on the divan beside him. Imogene served the cocktails and disappeared.

Winfield held up his glass. "To the future Mrs. Balcom," he said solemnly, or as solemnly as his bubbling eagerness would permit.

Lola laughed at him gaily, but did not drink to this. She held up her glass.

"To a very nice little boy who is quite mistaken," she said.

Winfield did a good imitation of a pouting child.

"Won't drink to that, either," he said.

"Oh, well, Win—to our health, then."

Later, on the drive to Connecticut through the gathering dusk, Winfield argued with Lola as eloquently as he knew how, but all she would say was, "No, Win," or else, "Silly boy," until a less persistent young man would have been utterly discouraged.

At the edge of a mirror-like pond, on a short-cut side road where a moss-covered millwheel had been motionless for two generations, Lola exclaimed at the beauty. The shadows were velvet, the water amethyst.

Winfield stopped the car, and he and Lola went down to the pebbly edge of the pond and breathed in the silent beauty of the place.

"How can you refuse me, darling, in this soul-stirring environment?" he asked.

After a while, Lola said, "I'm hungry."

"You are not! It's your way of."

Hay Fever Season Is Near

By C. N. CHRISMAN, M. D.

The hay fever season is near, and soon coughing, sneezing and watery eyes and noses will be heard and seen. We have heard the coughing and sneezing all winter, but these have been due to influenza. Now we will have another torment for our senses.

Hay fever is not primarily a disease, but results from sensitivity of the mucous membranes of the nose and throat to pollen irritation. To have hay fever, we must have a combination of a sensitive nose and the wind-blown pollen of flowering trees, grasses or weeds.

Most people think that we have hay fever only in August and September. That is the peak of the hay fever season but the disease, so-called, begins about the last of March when the trees and shrubs begin to flower and spread their pollens. This type persists till about June 1. Then begins the kind that is due to the grass pollens. This lasts from the last of May till the middle of July.

Hay fever itself may last seven or eight weeks, but persistent attacks may so irritate the nose, throat and bronchial tubes that chronic bronchial asthma may result. This discomfort and inefficiency sometimes persist throughout the year.

The first step in prevention is to find out the irritating pollens, then endeavor to render the mucous membranes and the system immune to these irritants.

The skin is also sensitive to extensive contacts with these pollens. Consequently, if we inject extracts of pollens into the skin, the offending pollen is determined if it raises a red, itching patch.

Usually there are more than one of these irritating agents. After the cause is determined, and followed by the injections of gradually increasing doses of an extract of these pollens, an immunity is finally established.

The favorite method is to start seven to 12 weeks before the expected attack and inject an amount of extract sufficient to cause some local systemic reaction. This is repeated at five to seven day intervals, using a little larger dose at each injection until 15 or 16 treatments are given, ending up about the day of the usual first symptoms.

BEAUCANT MEETS

Iced Bombe Will Lure Any Husband

NEW YORK.—Every housewife knows that the American husband—and his boss—is a "fall guy" for dessert.

But what some housewives are apt to forget during the stifling days of the summer, when pies and cakes are considered too heavy fare, is that a dab of applesauce, on a saucer, flanked with two hard ginger-snaps, is hardly a dessert. Even when the thermometer is flirting with 90, dessert should be an important part of the meal. And it should look cool as well as be cooling.

The famed Oscar of The Waldorf has watched his "Bombe Mascotte" being served to guests at The Waldorf-Astoria. He's seen tired, heat-weary faces relax, smiles grow. For "Bombe Mascotte" is the perfect finish to a summer meal.

And so, if you wish to impress the man of the house, as well as various and sundry guests, put a "Bombe Mascotte" on your table—and acknowledge the applause you'll get as just and due.

Here is Oscar's recipe:

INGREDIENTS
1 pint strawberry ice cream
4 egg yolks
4 ounces of sugar
1/4 pint of milk
3/4 pint of 40% cream.

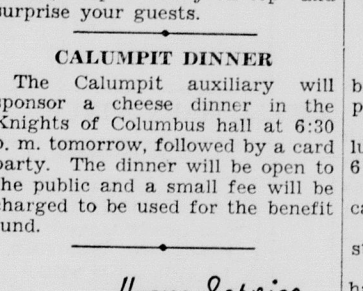

Kirsch
Cook milk and sugar and add yolks of eggs, slowly. Whip the mixture until cool, then mix with the cream, which has been whipped. Add kirsch flavoring.

Take a bombe form and line with strawberry ice cream, placing the mousse mixture in the center. Freeze for four hours.

Remove from form, place on silver platter or your choicest cake plate, decorate with whipped cream, drop a cherry on top—and surprise your guests.

CALUMPT DINNER
The Calumpt auxiliary will sponsor a cheese dinner in the Knights of Columbus hall at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow, followed by a card party. The dinner will be open to the public and a small fee will be charged to be used for the benefit fund.

Home Service
Up-to-Date Draperies Are Easy to Make

New Lines for Fall Windows
Glass curtains that follow the lines of your draperies are brand new—and very smart.

The charming window treatment shown here can be copied in a jiffy. It's just one width of drapery material and one width of glass curtain material hemmed together by machine!

Green and ivory striped cretonne was used with a sheer marquisette. Blue and gold two-tone rayon taffeta with gold-colored celanese net is another stunning possibility.

One picture shows a swinging crane in dull gold finish. The draperies, attached to it by rings, are swept to one side of the window and held in deep rich folds by a matching metal tie-back.

Or use a mahogany curtain rod and a tie-back of your drapery material edged with ball fringe, as in small sketch.

Diagrams and step-by-step instructions for making glass curtains, draperies, tie-backs, valances are given in our 32-page booklet. Latest styles, fabrics, color schemes.

Send 10 cents for your copy of How to Make Curtains and Draperies to Santa Ana Journal, Home Service, 117 East Fifth Street, Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

THE HORSEPLAY'S THE THING

With movie scripts these days asking even the stars to "take it," Leslie Howard gets an over-ripe tomato in the puss. The cop is Herman Thies.

HOLLYWOOD.—Leslie Howard gets socked full in the face with a ripe tomato in "Stand-In." Carole Lombard and Frederic March stage a knock-down-drag-out battle in "Nothing Sacred." Barbara Stanwyck and Herbert Marshall have a tilt with boxing gloves in "A Love Like That."

And "action pictures" takes on a new meaning in the Hollywood catalogue of phrases. Stardom, too, takes on new meaning, because a star, any old script now, may be asked to "take it" in a large and most undignified way.

SLAPSTICK'S COMEBACK
The upward surge of slapstick—or call it "modern whimsy" as does Director Elliott Nugent—in pictures, makes the glamour industry a hazardous calling.

Nugent directed what was probably the first of the new hysterical comedies, "Three-Cornered Moon," ante-dating even "My Man Godfrey," which floored audiences with its nut-appeal. Nugent has done another "modern whimsy" in "It's All Yours," with Madeleine Carroll and Francis Lederer.

Strangely, he points out, this type of comedy did not catch on with the public until after the depression. Then fans were looking at the "Grand Hotels" and "Les Miserables" of the film bill.

"People then," says Producer B. P. Schulberg, "didn't feel like laughing, they had too many troubles. Now they can't seem to get enough of it."

IT'S A NOVELTY TO SOME
But there are other theories to account for the rise of the "nut school" of comedy. One is that producers, wary of audience heckling that had greeted some of their efforts to be serious in old routine movie ways, have tried to anticipate by getting the laugh first—with the unexpected.

Another is that a new generation of movie fans, born after the popularity peak of such early slapstickers as Roscoe "Fatty" Arbuckle and others of the Mack Sennett custard pie school, has arrived. And this generation is finding the physical type of comedy a novelty worth paying to see, if there's smart dialogue to boot.

BARRYMORE TO LOSE INFANTA

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—John Barrymore's seagoing pride, the $75,000 yacht Infanta, will be auctioned Friday by a federal bankruptcy referee.

Against the Infanta is a $42,000 mortgage. Barrymore several months ago filed a petition in federal court asserting he was financially insolvent but needed time to meet his debts.

This summer Barrymore did a Shakespearean series on the radio, played a detective in two Bulldog Drummond movies, and has a lead second to Fred MacMurray in "True Confession," starting next month.

Investment Firm Appoints Du Vall

Lester W. Du Vall has been appointed resident manager of the Santa Ana office of William A. Lower and Co., Southern California investment firm, according to an announcement yesterday by William A. Lower, head of the firm.

Du Vall has succeeded Lynn A. Hart, who has been associated with the firm since its inception in 1931. Hart is retiring from the securities business to devote his entire time to outside personal interests.

The new resident manager has been associated with one of the leading firms in Portland, Ore., for the past five years. Previously for 10 years he had been an independent securities appraiser. Earlier in Du Vall's investment career he was associated with the New York Stock Exchange and investment houses.

Editor to Address Kiwanians Here

Paul Weaver, Santa Monica editor, will address the Santa Ana Kiwanis club at its meeting Wednesday in the Masonic temple, it was announced today by Clyde Rowland, chairman.

Weaver's topic will be "The Relation Between Capital and Labor."

REGAINS HEALTH

Lester Steinkopf, who has been sick for several weeks, is able to resume his duties at Betty's cafe. He has been suffering from a heart attack.

George Rogers Clark, American "frontiersman," began his career at 19, when he left home to become a surveyor of land along the Ohio river.

SUICIDE FLEET...

On June 21, 1919, a flag was hoisted aboard the cruiser "Emden," flagship of the German High Seas fleet at Scapa Flow, a harbor in the Orkney Islands. It was the command for the greatest mass sinking of ships ever to occur in naval history. Seventy ships were sunk in obedience to it while two other ships were beached. Strange as it seems, this "suicide of a fleet" was due to a five-day-old newspaper!

Newspapers dated June 16 reached Von Reuter on the 21st of the month. They indicated that peace negotiations were breaking down, when, as a matter of fact, the Versailles treaty was well under way and brought the war to an end only seven days later. Taking advantage of the fact that the major part of the guarding British fleet had left the harbor for brief maneuvers, the admiral hoisted the signal that called for the scuttling of his fleet. Sea-cocks were opened on nine battleships, five battle-cruisers, eight light cruisers and 48 destroyers. They filled with water and sank. Two destroyers were beached.

Dear Judge: Did you ever hear of a high-priced "watch dog" that wasn't fast asleep when burglars came?

T. P. B.

No. In fact, they call them "watch dogs" because if you don't watch them, the burglars will take them, too.

A Rebuke for Mr. Webb

Gov. Merriam announces that he will challenge the validity of the referendum by which interested corporations are trying to hold up the Olson law to regulate and tax oil drilling into the state-owned fields at Huntington Beach and Wilmington.

The Olson law carries an urgency clause intended by the legislature to prevent a referendum. This because a few companies that control shore property at Huntington Beach are draining oil from the state-owned field at ridiculously low royalties and will continue to do so if the referendum is allowed.

Under the Olson law these companies would be required to pay royalties to the state up to 30 per cent of the value of the oil. But sufficient signatures have been filed with the secretary of state to invoke a referendum that would prevent enforcement until after the November election of 1938, thereby permitting the private monopolists to continue to take state-owned oil on the old basis.

Atty. Gen. Webb went out of his way to help the oil companies several weeks ago by ruling that the urgency clause of the Olson bill was invalid, on the technical ground that it gave new powers and duties to the state finance director.

Now he finds himself in the embarrassing position of facing a call from the governor to go into court and invalidate the oil-company referendum by defending the validity of that same urgency clause.

Gov. Merriam is to be commended for insisting that the state fight to uphold the legislature in its attempt to prevent a referendum, instead of accepting Mr. Webb's adverse opinion.

As for Mr. Webb, what can be said of an attorney general who goes out of his way to surrender the state's case in advance in a matter where the intent of the legislature was clear and in which millions of dollars of state property are at stake?

Great Britain is to protest the shooting of her ambassador by the Japs. The cheapest thing in international diplomacy is the protest. When it comes to shooting ambassadors protest cheapens ambassadors.

Dollars Rolling Uphill

"The next time we find some gas tax dollars rolling up hill," said the board of supervisors to Orange county mayors, "we will give them to the cities."

That, in effect, was the board's reply when the mayors came before it to plead for some of the county's share of the state gasoline tax. The cities had been getting part of the gas tax money for a number of years because they repeatedly went before the board and fought for it. But this year the board announced it was keeping the money for itself.

The explanation was that the state this year deducted $94,000 from the county's allotment as a payment on the $612,000 borrowed by the county from the state for relief.

However, the supervisors made a gesture which pleased the mayors. The board announced that if the county's share amounts to more than $295,000, the cities will get something out of the excess. The board, as a matter of fact, had been expecting the county to receive about $201,000, or $35,000 less than it got last year. Along came Assemblyman Thomas Kuchel, representing the cities, and said the state expects a three per cent increase in gas tax receipts this year.

That gave the cities their ray of hope. The delegation, optimistic over the possibility of this increase, went away confidently expecting to get a slice of the funds.

We hope the city delegation is not overly-optimistic, and that a goodly share of these gas tax dollars actually will roll over the top of the hill into the coffers of Orange county municipalities. We even hope the supervisors get behind those dollars and shove a little to help them over the top.

Dressed like a miner, Mussolini explored a sulphur mine in Italy. Probably gathering material for his next speech.

Boo!

"Though never nurtured in the lap
"Of luxury, yet, I admonish you,
"I am an intellectual chap,
"And think of things that would astonish you."

Like Private Willis, in Gilbert and Sullivan's "Iolanthe," Rep. Edward Eugene Cox of Camilla, Ga., has been thinking up some astonishing things. Seems he has "authentic" information that the C.I.O. leaders are so mad about defeat of the wage-hour bill, which he helped chloroform in the house rules committee, that they plan "a campaign of industrial disorder, intended to terminate in a general strike designed to bring the industries of the South and Henry Ford to their knees and reduce every contributing industry to a state of supplication for peace."

If that weren't bad enough the Communists in every state plan to "invade and infiltrate" both the Democratic and Republican parties through C.I.O. membership. And what's more, if the Democrats don't give back the $500,000 loan from Mr. Lewis' C.I.O., "it inevitably faces ruin."

Here we are just settling back with our minds full of happy thoughts about the adjournment of congress, and good crops and fewer strikes and what a grand country this is after all. And along comes the Hon. E. Cox with this bunch of doom.

Well, maybe he'll feel better when he gets back to Dixie, stretches out in his rocking chair, and stops thinking so hard.

An "undeclared war" seems to be one where more civilians are killed.

NEW YORK. — The saga of mysterious John Montague, the Paul Bunyan of the golf course, the locker room and the motor highways, continues in the same goosy tenor even in the honorable courts of New York state. His incognito destroyed by publicity, the mighty man who is said to have hit a golf ball more than a quarter of a mile once and often and to have picked sparrows off a wire with a niblick at 50 yards was returned to Elizabethtown, N. Y., to answer a seven-year-old charge of robbery.

There he was described by Supreme Justice Brewer as a modern Jean Valjean, perhaps to his own surprise, for he never revealed his occupation to his friends in California, and heard the judge refer to him as a useful citizen.

To summarize, the mighty Montague first began to attract attention about a year ago as one who could heave a heavyweight bartender over a transom without getting out of his chair and shoot par golf with a ball bat, a shovel and a rake.

FEARED OWN STRENGTH

He could also stand off 10 paces or some such matter and flip playing cards at the crack in the door of a locker and make them stick—for money. And once, on a lonely highway, in a slight altercation with two horny-handed drivers of a stalled truck he left the seat of his own car, pulled a double spare tire off the rack on the stern of the truck with his bare hands, threw it down a gorge and drove off in quiet hauteur.

Such was the reputation of the mighty Montague, and perhaps his prowess was exaggerated slightly in the telling. He wouldn't play tournament golf, which would have revealed just how good he was by comparison with the best, because he just didn't want to.

FRIENDS AMAZED

Nevertheless and in spite of a firm determination never to let anyone take his picture for publication, he did become famous, and his admiring friends in Hollywood were astonished one day when a New York truck he left the seat of his own car, pulled a double spare tire off the rack on the stern of the truck with his bare hands, threw it down a gorge and drove off in quiet hauteur.

Thus in one unhappy hour the modesty of the mighty Montague, his distaste for high competitive title in sport and his disdain for the rewards thereof as well as his aversion to personal publicity all were explained away.

The New York judge, however, would seem to have information which is not shared even now by some of the famous men and women who knew him best in Hollywood.

To them he always was mysterious, never revealing the source of an apparently large income, and there were romantic rumors of a hole in the ground far off in the desert into which he would disappear for a few weeks every now and again to emerge with raw gold.

And yet the learned judge said, in admitting Jean Valjean to bail, "for upward of six or seven years you have made your life over and have been a useful and respected and, I think it may be added, a distinguished citizen of a far-away land."

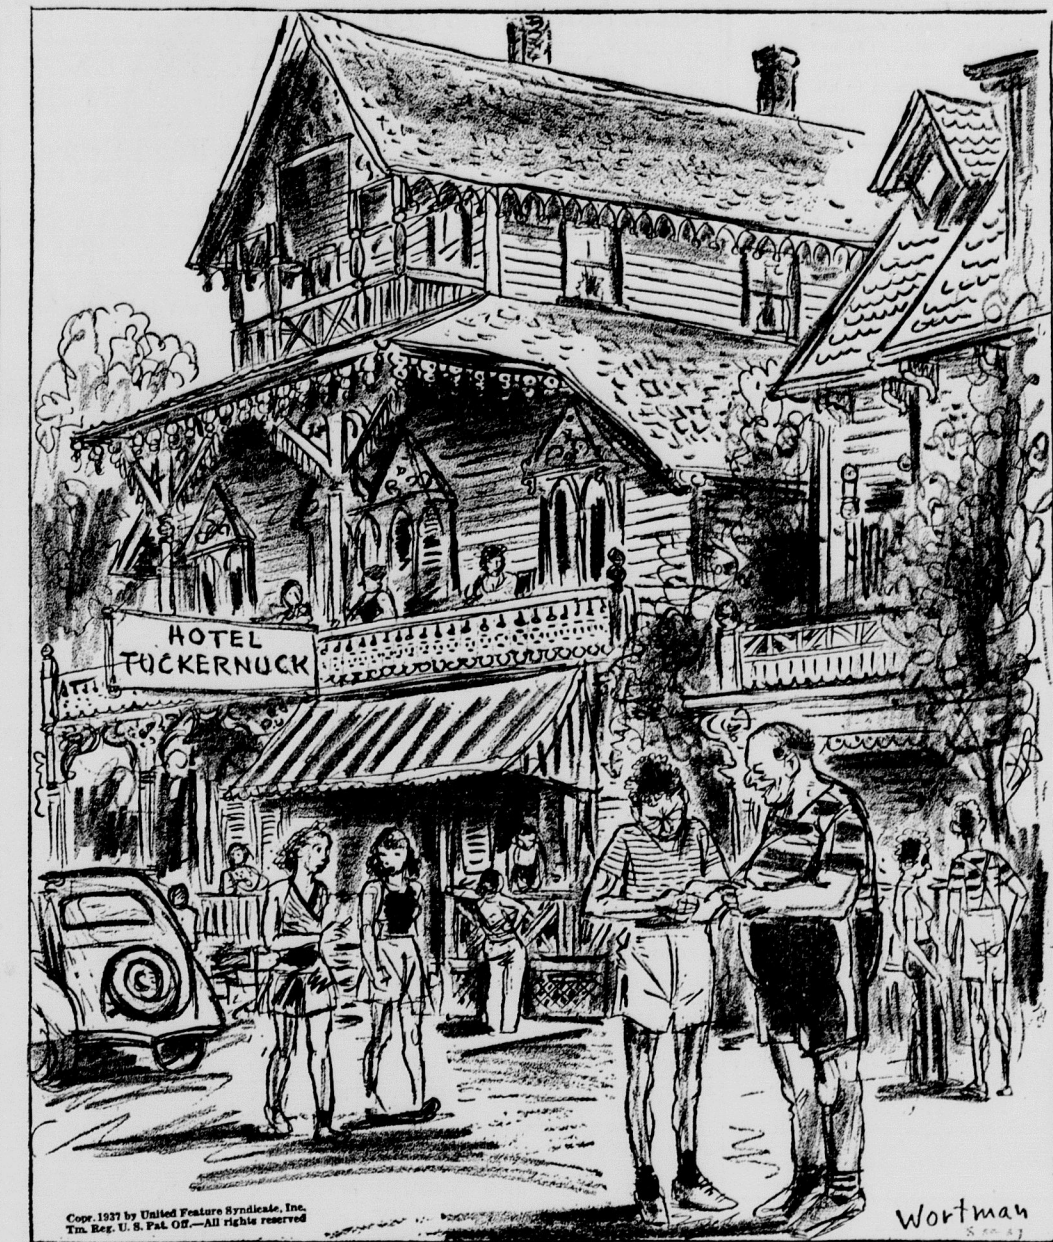

It was a swell speech that the judge delivered and fitted the nomination of a county chairman from a lecture to one accused of felonious doing, but it still leaves the friends of the defendant in the dark as to where he got his money. He was known as one who would bet adult chunks on impromptu issues either in golf or cards and was said to carry his funds in travelers' checks by some peculiar preference.

G-MAN ACT?

It would be unwise to speculate on the mighty Montague's fate at the hands of the court, but now that the wraps are off the man it is worth hoping that he will be allowed to enter the tournaments and the ring to demonstrate whether he is all that legend said of him. There could almost be called the public's due.

And if truth there be in one of the stories told of him that time he kept his secret in California there will be embarrassed blushes in J. Edgar Hoover's bureau in the United States Department of Justice. For it is related in Hollywood that two of Mr. Hoover's operatives once picked up Montague on a road at night on a charge of impersonating a G-man but let La Verne Moore go when, after a number of whiskey sodas, he convinced them that he had done no such thing.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

"Bud writes he and Ray are coming up. Won't that be great! It'll be just like being back in Santa Ana."

SACRAMENTO.—That the Bull Moose National committee is assessing the banks of the country $250 each, as charged by the Washington Post and related in an Associated Press dispatch, received a confirmation here yesterday, when a local banker displayed the letter he, himself, received. This man is president of one of the Sacramento banks, he is a Taft man, and never affiliated in any manner with the Bull Moose movement.

CHARLESTON.—Martial law was declared in the strike regions in Vacant and Cabin creeks today. The strikers tore up the railroads. More than 5000 men, some of whom are armed, are parading the district. All wires in the district have been cut.

GOLFER

Saito's great outdoor passion is golf. He is a member of Washington's exclusive Burning Tree club, and on Sunday morning, passing motorists may see his diminutive figure making the rounds of the course with a golf bag and a supreme court justice. He shoots around 90.

Save for his complexion, Saito does not look particularly Oriental—a fact that he is secretly proud of. His cast of features is decidedly Occidental. His nose is longer and his eyes rounder than the typical Oriental. Further, his speech has only a slight trace of accent. Even before he left Japan as a young man, he had a fluent command of English, learned first from his father, who taught English in Tokyo.

Knowledge of English ran in his family. Saito's younger sister, Etsuko, before she died at the age of 22, made a translation of Longfellow's "Evangeline" into Japanese. The ambassador had it published with a foreword of his own, and it is still sold in Japan.

Saito was 47 years old when appointed ambassador to Washington in 1934. He was the youngest ambassador Japan had ever sent to this country, and in being elevated to this prize post he was jumped over 20 seniors in the Japanese diplomatic service.

WISE CRACKER
His youth is accentuated by his youthful appearance. Asked once by a dinner companion for the reason of his boyish appearance, he replied with a grin: "I disapprove of my own life. Whiskey and soda every afternoon—all afternoon."

Before he arrived in Washington from his last post as minister to the Hague, the embassy staff here received a cable from Saito in Paris. It consisted of three words: "How is cave?" The cryptic message puzzled the secretaries, until they realized that "cave" referred to the embassy's wine cellar and Saito was preparing to stock it, if need be, with famed French wines.

When he arrived in New York, reporters went aboard the ship to meet him. He greeted them cordially and invited them to the bar for drinks. He responded to all questions with the smooth Saito. No matter how much you may disagree with Saito, you must admit his reputation for honesty and integrity.

In Monday morning's News, in an editorial denouncing Senator McAdoo and his law partner, "Bill" Neblitt. The editorial says that the removal of Pierson Hall from the U. S. district attorneyship was one of the silliest pieces of political dirty work in California history. It calls for a concerted drive to stop McAdoo and Neblitt from getting control of the entire state government of California.

McAdoo is regarded as an interloper by most old-time California Democrats. They resent, as does the Daily News, his taking over of party control. They resent his handling of federal patronage—at least all of them except those who got over on the McAdoo bandwagon and got themselves a job.

The McAdoo-Neblitt patronage combine has had plenty of reverberations in Orange county. The big boss here also is an interloper, named "Ham" Cotton. Ham shoved aside loyal Democrats and steamrollered his own appointments from those who flocked around his banner. Many of them had no standing as Democrats before 1932. They were bandwagon riders and opportunists. Men who had carried the Democratic torch during the long, dry years of Republican control were left in the ditch.

The writer is little concerned with the internal troubles of the Democratic party, but is much concerned with the prospect of an extension of McAdoo-Neblitt-Cotton control in state affairs. If this outfit is allowed to slip into power at Sacramento, in the same way McAdoo slipped into the United States senate, it will mean a long backward step from the goal of clean and honest government.

SOME months ago following one of the political upheavals in Tokyo, it was reported that Saito had been offered the post of foreign minister, and had turned it down. Saito is strongly sympathetic toward the Japanese militarists who are the real rulers of the country. In fact, he owes his preferment over older colleagues in the diplomatic service to the influence of the extreme nationalists. He is a warm believer in their movement and imperialistic aims.

That is why he is not more disturbed as he watches the Far Eastern fray from his luxurious embassy in Washington. He would prefer Americans to think of Japan only in terms of its famous cherry blossoms. But if they must surge with indignation, he is not the one to beat his breast in remorse.

For consolation there is always the rice paper, the dainty brush and the lovely lines of Chinese poetry.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The Brass Ring is good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round. The free rider this week is Hiroshi Saito, Japan's ambassador to the U.S. at a time when American public opinion puts him in a tough spot.)

WASHINGTON.—With Oriental calm, Hiroshi Saito, dapper little Japanese ambassador to the United States, sits in his ornate private sanctum reading confidential dispatches from Tokyo, listening to the mounting roar of anti-Japanese sentiment in this country, and unusual knowledge of the United States and its people.

Saito is in the toughest spot, at the moment, of any foreign emissary in Washington. To cope with his great responsibilities, he is equipped with a sense of humor, an unquestioning belief in the might and destiny of his country, and an unusual knowledge of the United States and its people.

He knows this country far better than the average American and is never perturbed by any turn which public opinion may take. He is not surprised at the ugly pictures of the Nipponese war lord appearing in current cartoons, any more than he was surprised when, in 1923, Americans in a great surge of sympathy donated $16,700,000 for relief of earthquake victims in Japan.

From the day that Japanese troops marched into what is now Manchukuo, Saito knew what Americans would say about his country. He is not disturbed. With a mildly critical eye, he has watched the ebb and flow of American public opinion since he first came to this country at the age of 25. He has lived here 17 years in all, more of his adult life than in any other country, including his own.

Starting as consul in Seattle, he has served as consul general in New York, as attaché in Washington, counselor, and finally ambassador.

GOLFER
Saito's great outdoor passion is golf. He is a member of Washington's exclusive Burning Tree club, and on Sunday morning, passing motorists may see his diminutive figure making the rounds of the course with a golf bag and a supreme court justice. He shoots around 90.

In fact, he owes his preferment over older colleagues in the diplomatic service to the influence of the extreme nationalists. He is a warm believer in their movement and imperialistic aims.

That is why he is not more disturbed as he watches the Far Eastern fray from his luxurious embassy in Washington. He would prefer Americans to think of Japan only in terms of its famous cherry blossoms. But if they must surge with indignation, he is not the one to beat his breast in remorse.

For consolation there is always the rice paper, the dainty brush and the lovely lines of Chinese poetry.

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER
A PRIVATE MATTER

"For once, and probably only once, I am going to publish part of a personal letter without first getting permission of the writer. Here it is:

"We are living in a very interesting and exciting time in history because apparently every nation in the world is facing some sort of a crisis today. One can only wonder what will come out of the transition through which we are passing.

"It will probably rank as one of the outstanding facts of all human history that every great country in the world seemed to suffer major dislocations in its economic and financial life at practically the same time. Probably pessimistic people feel that all of this presages a world decline of an almost cataclysmic character. I do not believe this because the elements of social change that have made the world over in the last three-quarters of a century. The changes wrought have placed in our hands instrumentalities that ought to make comparatively easy the preservation of the worth-while things of our time.

"To thoughtful people the marvels of modern science presents both hope and despair; hope because science can free mankind from many economic fears that have assailed human beings; fear because these same forces have and will increase the power of destruction. So, alternating between hope and fear, the spirit of man goes forward down the pathway to whatever destiny providence has ordained.

"A man is bold indeed who feels that he can contribute very much to the forces of social change that are so profoundly stirring the whole world. The most that any of us can do now is to lend our puny strength to the support of those things that we feel constitute a barrier in the path of evil forces and contribute our little mite of strength in the age-old battle for humanity.

"I hope that you will find the physical and spiritual strength to carry on the work that lies before you. We both have a lot to cut out for us, and as we work to another I send along my kindest greetings."

Many thanks, Homer Bone, and the same kind greetings and good wishes to yourself. Please forgive publication of a part of a personal letter. That's part of the penalty you pay for being a United States senator.

What Other Editors Say

TIME TO STOP McADOODLEISM

(La Habra Star)

The most important democratic newspaper in Southern California is the Los Angeles Illustrated Daily News. Its editor and publisher is a man named Saito. No matter how much you may disagree with Saito, you must admit his reputation for honesty and integrity.

In Monday morning's News, in an editorial denouncing Senator McAdoo and his law partner, "Bill" Neblitt. The editorial says that the removal of Pierson Hall from the U. S. district attorneyship was one of the silliest pieces of political dirty work in California history. It calls for a concerted drive to stop McAdoo and Neblitt from getting control of the entire state government of California.

McAdoo is regarded as an interloper by most old-time California Democrats. They resent, as does the Daily News, his taking over of party control. They resent his handling of federal patronage—at least all of them except those who got over on the McAdoo bandwagon and got themselves a job.

The McAdoo-Neblitt patronage combine has had plenty of reverberations in Orange county. The big boss here also is an interloper, named "Ham" Cotton. Ham shoved aside loyal Democrats and steamrollered his own appointments from those who flocked around his banner. Many of them had no standing as Democrats before 1932. They were bandwagon riders and opportunists. Men who had carried the Democratic torch during the long, dry years of Republican control were left in the ditch.

The writer is little concerned with the internal troubles of the Democratic party, but is much concerned with the prospect of an extension of McAdoo-Neblitt-Cotton control in state affairs. If this outfit is allowed to slip into power at Sacramento, in the same way McAdoo slipped into the United States senate, it will mean a long backward step from the goal of clean and honest government.

Remarkable Remarks

I told grandma not to smoke.

"I'll get you sick," I said.

Charles Norman, Jr., 6, of West Patterson, N. J., a smoker for about four years, who disapproves of women smoking.

A wife cannot escape the competition of other women, but she shares the same privilege at the beauty parlor—Myrna Loy, actress, expressing her philosophy of a happy marriage.

We have shown a definite plan for bringing reverence and spiritual interpretation into the courtship practice.—Dr. W. A. McKeever, Oklahoma City, founder of the "Love church."

NO ANIMALS
The artist who is painting a portrait of President Roosevelt has been in the habit of entering the White House by the front door of the executive offices, where the guards know him. One day recently he decided on a short route through a side entrance. A guard halted him. "What's in that package you've got?" he asked.

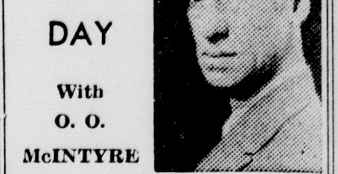

"Just an easel," said the artist.

"Well, we don't allow animals in the White House," snapped the guard.—Montreal Star.

WHIMSIES

DAY
BY DAY

With
O. O.
McINTYRE

NEW YORK. — Diary: Lay

scandalously late and came a cutting about sunsets and an interesting note from Talullah's father, Congressman Bankhead. And an autographed book from his favorite litterateur, William Saroyan, called "Little Children" and a note from Hattie Bell Johnston in Cape-town.

So to breakfast al fresco at Chatham Walk with my wife Cousin Josephine, and she away to the shore with a younger and handsomer fellow. Then to see a great coat made of gazelle skin, very rakish. And home where Joe Bryan III stopped and he is leaving The City to live near Philadelphia.

To dinner with my lady at the Colony and talked awhile to Conde Nast, the most youthful, active and spruce gentleman I know for his years, he having a daughter 32 and one 7. Afterward to a birthday party for Mary Brown Warburton and everbody there, so many I stayed but a moment disliking crowds so.

Growing hair on celebrity pates has been the object of the diversions of the summer tedium. George Jean Nathan started it by confessing in print that some mixture saved his locks, and baldness was the outcome of laziness. Then Charles MacArthur bobbed up with a paean for some massaging device, and before the shouting died of importance with thinning hair is trying out one of the three panacea of chronic headaches began to massage his scalp vigorously twice a day. In a year he still had the headaches but a new crop of hair.

Personal nomination for the most entertaining of the screen's "wonder kiddies"—Bobbie Green.

Roy Howard is credited with inoculating Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippines, with an itch for dazzling shirts. Quezon passed the time without showing predictions for anything in shirts save snow white. Then Howard visited the Philippines several times and became a friend and palace guest of Quezon. The Filipino took a gander at Howard's astonishingly white collar with a match and went scurrying to his shirtmaker. When he came to New York on his way to the coronation early this summer he insisted that Howard take him around to his shirtmaker, Sam and Bill McCrory, and Quezon let himself buy more than 200 shirts, 500 ties and 100 sets of pajamas. It was about the biggest single order since Michael Arlen came to America in the first flush of his literary fame and increased the Sulka dividends.

An unusual eating place down town is India House on Hanover Square, a private club patronized mostly by prosperous importers and exporters and other captains of industry—men who have bargained all over the world. It is mellow with antiquity and although there are three floors, no elevators. The walls are lined with prints of ancient sailing vessels and contracts drawn up between the white traders and the blacks in far away jungles.

Bagatelles: Patsy Kelly goes to the movies almost every night. Ben Ames Williams is the most popular fiction writer among court judges and lawyers. Paul Gallager, who is writing sports two years ago to write fiction, recently appeared in seven magazines in one month. Bob Davis and his wife Madge are on their sixth trip around the world. The Duchess of Windsor's favorite American novelist is Ellen Glasgow.

Symbology stuff: He swung from a moving bus at 49th street along the avenue, skittered into a running fall to his knees, got up grinning and moved off whistling and wondered if there was not a lesson there for the world. Or something.
